

Satellite Fails, Was To Check on Radiation

Launching Off Well, No Orbit Another Juno II Ready for Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States failed today in an effort to put a radiation study satellite into orbit around the earth.

The big four-stage Juno II rocket lifted off successfully from this missile testing station. But nearly an hour later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington reported it had failed to place its payload in orbit.

One Stage Fails

The space agency said project officials suspect that one of the upper stages failed to ignite.

"There has been no confirmation as yet of third- and fourth-stage ignition," the agency said. "Tracking reports are being checked and a further report on upper stage performance will be available shortly."

The rocket was designed to place a 35-pound satellite into orbit to make the broadest study yet of great radiation zones in space which could imperil space flight.

A definite indication of failure had been reported earlier at the launching site itself.

Likely to Try Again

Dr. Werner von Braun, Army missile expert recently shifted to NASA, said there was no information here on later-stage ignition and "it doesn't look good."

Von Braun said in case of confirmed failure the experiment probably will be tried again. He said another Juno II is available.

Von Braun said a quick look at data radioed from the rocket showed the first and second stages performed perfectly.

More Time Needed

"But we have no indication of third stage ignition nor do we have an indication of the rocket continuing on after the point at which the third stage was scheduled to fire," the scientist said.

Von Braun said it probably will be two or three hours before failure can be determined definitely.

The big Juno II rocket blazed into the sky at 8:35 a.m. EST on a journey aimed to help prepare the way for space flight.

The 76-foot rocket rose slowly from its pad, spurring a tongue of flame from its liquid fuel engine. It gradually picked up speed as its tons of fuel were consumed and after 30 seconds curved toward the northeast.

Majority With Me, Is Answer to Veto

Mahoney in Open Conflict With Rocky Over Decision on Residency Measure

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, in open conflict with Gov. Rockefeller over the welfare-residency bill veto, says he is confident "the vast majority of citizens... agree with me."

The Republican senator sent the Governor Signs Bill to Permit Claims Payment

Authority has been given the Town of Rochester to pay certain highway claims incurred during the years 1955-1957 in the sum of $8,484,84, under legislation approved by the present legislature and signed into law by Governor Rockefeller. The bill was introduced into the assembly by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County.

Legislation Required

The legislation was required in order that the town board might audit and pay the claims which were incurred for motor vehicle supplies, services and road materials furnished to the town highway department during 1955-1957. The law authorized payment of the claims from unexpended balance of the Town of Rochester highway fund as of the close of business December 31, 1959.

Provision for payment of the claims had been in anticipation of passage of the law.

Supervisor A. Richard Terwilliger commenting on the new law said:

Lauds Wilson's Help

"The report from Assemblyman Wilson's office that Governor Rockefeller has signed this legislation is most gratifying. The cooperation of Mr. Wilson has been splendid throughout."

Prior legislation offered at last year's session of the Legislature was vetoed by the governor. There remains approximately $6,000 in unpaid claims which were not included in the present bill as the firms are subjects of the current investigation of Ulster County. Settlement of these claims must await the conclusion of the investigation.

"Payment of the approved claims will be made in the immediate future, as soon as necessary administration details are completed," Supervisor Terwilliger said.

Purchase Price Reported Paid on Washburn Option

An option taken six months ago on the property of the former Washburn Brothers brickyard property at Glasco was reported to have been exercised Tuesday and the full purchase price paid. The option taken last fall in the name of Attorney G. Thomas Rea Jr. of Saugerties and there has been no announcement as to who the interested parties are.

Inquiry at the time of the option last October resulted in "no comment" from Attorney Rea.

It is understood the full purchase price was paid Tuesday when the option was closed and the money is being held in escrow pending completion of certain matters relating to title, etc. It is understood that the

Favor Kline, Withall For B of E Positions

Recently a committee of interested persons in Kingston School District, Consolidated, organized with the purpose of endorsing candidates for the two positions available on the Board of Education in the May 3 election.

The terms of David Kline of Kingston and County Judge Louis G. Bruhn will expire at the end of the school year. Both trustees are presently serving under appointments to the board. Under the consolidation, trustees will be elected.

This committee of 25, many of whom served on the original "committee of fifty" at the time consolidation was being proposed, after due consideration chose to endorse Trustee David Kline to succeed himself and Arthur Withall of Rifton, who served as chairman of his local school board for 12 years.

Petitions are being circulated in behalf of Trustee Kline and Withall by Kingston Area Committee on Education. In the past few days over 500 signatures have been amassed.

The endorsement of these two candidates is by a large and diversified group, Larios said. The group felt that this past year's operation has strongly indicated that men with experience must be elected to the Board of Education.

Kline has been a member of the board, the chairman of the committee said, "even though many of us have had differences of opinion with the board, we feel that Mr. Kline has worked diligently and long on many problems facing the school district. Mr. Kline has donated his services, has sacrificed much of his personal and business time for school board business and (Continued on Page 12, Col. 4)

State Park Support on Gain Here

Strong Appeal Is Urged for Unity

Only "through a united and strong appeal," will the area gain a state park facility such as those "which our tax dollars are supporting in all other sections of our state," Mayor Edwin F. Radel said today.

In a press release he said: "It is very gratifying to finally see and hear press releases from various sources in support of a state park program for Ulster County."

"After several years as Third Ward alderman and now as mayor," he said, "I have fought practically a single-handed and one-party fight, pressing for consideration for our area for summer recreation facilities, and always without one word of support from the various agencies that are so quick to make their feelings known on almost any other subject."

"Yesterday, I read and heard with interest that the Chamber of Commerce was for state parks, and that two Republican aldermen made a special trip to Albany to 'speak convincingly in their request that Kingston be among the areas considered under the proposed park program.'"

"From public reaction, he said, 'to my pleas, and requests of the various state agencies over the past years, I find that this is a most popular project for this area, and the Moses-Rockefeller plan may be the key to finally realizing this goal for the Ulster County residents, but individual programs sprouting on the roots of one already established, will not insure its success. Only through a united and strong appeal will we get the facilities for our area similar to that which our tax dollars are supporting in all other sections of our state.'"

Unusually Lengthy

In a hard-hitting and unusually lengthy veto message, Rockefeller challenged the main argument of the bill's supporters—cost.

"The bill would not result in any real savings to the public generally," the governor said. "We cannot reduce the real costs of public care and assistance by any such easy device. A law does not abolish poverty or the need for help."

At the same time, Rockefeller told the State Welfare Department to "eliminate the abuses which exist in some areas" or he would ask the Legislature to act. He did not elaborate.

The Senate, meanwhile, passed and sent to the Assembly a measure calling for a statewide study to seek economies in welfare spending.

Hoover Group Study

The state's "Little Hoover Commission" would make the study through a subcommittee headed by Sen. Henry Wise (R-Waterbury), chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Welfare.

In another development, Assembly Majority Leader Charles A. Schoenck Jr., a sponsor of a bill the Legislature has passed would eliminate a requirement that caseworkers and social welfare investigators have college degrees, said a compromise had been worked out.

Supporters of the original legislation said it would ease a shortage of welfare investigators and allow better policing of relief rolls. Opponents said it would downgrade relief operations.

The compromise bill, filed Tuesday, would create a personnel classification board for welfare workers.

In other legislative developments, a new bill to authorize school districts to levy a 10 percent use tax on telephones was introduced in the Senate. It would take effect Sept. 1, provided a similar federal bill expired June 30. An earlier bill set the starting date for the state tax at July 1.

Bulganin Sick, At Moscow Villa

MOSCOW (AP)—Usually reliable informants say former Premier Nikolai Bulganin, sick and plagued by attacks as a member of the so-called anti-party group, has been retired on a pension and is back in Moscow.

The informants said Bulganin was put out to pasture after appealing to his old traveling companion and successor, Nikita Khrushchev.

Bulganin returned to the Soviet capital from his obscure post as chairman of the Stavropol Economic Council, the informants said.

They gave this account: Bulganin went to see Khrushchev, who succeeded him as premier in March 1958, and complained that local party officials in Stavropol were making his life miserable. They continually cast up to him his confession that he was linked with former Premier Georgi Malenkov, ex-Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and former Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich in the "anti-party group" that threatened Khrushchev's position.

Khrushchev listened sympathetically, then suggested that he accept a monthly pension of 3,000 rubles — $750 at the Soviet exchange rate — and retire from active life. Bulganin accepted and is now living in a villa on the outskirts of Moscow.

Welcome Is Colorful For Soviet Particular Care Of Problem Vital

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived in Paris today for a 11-day state visit and indicated that disarmament may be uppermost in his mind when he talks with French President Charles de Gaulle.

In a speech after landing at Orly Airport, Khrushchev touched on main problems facing East and West but said "We must in particular care for the problem of disarmament."

No De Gaulle Comment

De Gaulle, whose government is pushing ahead with a program of nuclear weapon development to increase its status in world councils, gave no indication of his reaction to Khrushchev's words. Always austere, he stood quietly by as an interpreter translated from the Russian.

Khrushchev also made what appeared to be an oblique reference to Berlin, speaking of the dangerous leftovers of World War II, a description he has often applied to the still-occupied German metropolis.

"These shells and these bombs are corroded by rust," he said, "and one runs a great risk in unearthing them. But to leave them intact is to expose yourself with caution and mastery. We must do the same in clearing from our old and beautiful earth the remains of these somber years of war. It is a difficult and delicate task."

Calls for Ties

The Soviet Premier, who would like to see a slackening of Paris-Bonn ties, called for further development of relations between France and the Soviet Union.

"If the Soviet Union and France, the two greatest powers of Continental Europe, in concert with all nations dedicated to peace, take an agreed position on the fundamental problems of maintaining peace, no aggressive force would be able to raise its head and trouble the peace of Europe," he said.

"Our countries can play a role no less important in the solution of the most pressing problems of our times. That is to say, particularly disarmament."

Orly Airport was a blaze of color and pageantry as the French put on a full-dress greeting for Khrushchev's first visit to France, the first by a Russian government chief since Czar Nicholas II came (Continued on Page 12, Col. 3)

Flemming Bares Study On Aged Care

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming advised Congress today the administration has been considering a program under which federal and state governments would pay the major cost of health insurance for the aged.

But no conclusion has been reached as to the best manner of dealing with the problem of financing medical care for the aged, Flemming told the House Ways and Means Committee. He said emphasis in studies of the question is being placed on having the states carrying their fair share of the total burden.

The secretary presented a statement in a closed session of the committee but it was made public almost as the committee went into session.

The committee is considering general changes in the Social Security program.

His recommendations:

As to this, Flemming recommended:

1. Removing the requirement that an otherwise qualified disabled person must be 50 years of age to receive disability benefits.

Flemming said this would make about 250,000 people immediately eligible for benefits, would cost about 200 million dollars in 1961, increasing in the future to an average of over 600 million dollars a year.

2. Increasing the benefit for each child of a deceased worker to three-fourths of the worker's benefit amount had he lived.

The present law provides that in a survivor case the benefit payable to a child is one-half of what the worker's benefit would have been, plus one-fourth of the worker's benefit amount divided by (Continued on Page 10, Col. 2)

Violence on Wane, Negroes to Strike

Job Halt Linked to Campaign Against Hated Passes Non-Whites Must Carry

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Violence appeared on the wane today in riot-bloody South Africa, but militant Negroes turned to the strike weapon in their campaign against the hated passes they must carry as non-whites.

More and more Negroes were expected to stay away from their jobs, particularly in Cape Town and near Vereeniging, the coal and steel center south of Johannesburg. Nonwhite townships in those areas were the scene of the riots Monday and Tuesday in which police gunfire killed at least 67 Negroes and wounded 182 or more.

Bullets Provoke Criticism

The use of police bullets to quell the Negro demonstrations set off a worldwide wave of criticism of South Africa's white supremacist government. The angry foreign reaction included an extraordinary official denunciation by the U.S. State Department.

Thousands of police backed by armored cars enforced a tense truce in most areas.

The black settlement of Langa, near Cape Town, where at least six Negroes were killed Monday, was the chief trouble center Tuesday. Crowds burned at least eight buildings and stoned firemen and police. One Negro was shot and killed.

Demand Investigation

Aroused political opponents of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd demanded a thorough investigation of the violence and an end to South Africa's "drift to disaster," Verwoerd, whose Nationalist party masterminded the nation's rigid white supremacy policies, said he would consider naming a commission to study the crisis.

Thousands of Negro laborers stayed home Tuesday in Cape Town and Vereeniging, protesting the identification passes that are (Continued on Page 12, Col. 6)

Arlington Votes $132,000 Sum for School Addition

Arlington Central School district voters on Tuesday approved a $132,600 bond issue for an addition to the Overlook School by an overwhelming majority, and school officials said work probably will start on the project in about a month.

A total of 536 votes were cast in yesterday's election, with 472 voting in favor of the bond issue, and 62 against. Two ballots were voided.

Adds 6 Classrooms

Harold S. Storm, superintendent of schools, told The Freeman today that the building program which will add six classrooms to the Overlook School should get underway in about a month. He said advertisements for bids will be placed in less than two weeks and the contracts will be awarded soon after that date.

The present school, built in 1956, with a capacity of 270 elementary pupils, is using all classrooms and the library to accommodate 286 pupils, and by September the enrollment is expected to increase to about 315, school officials said.

No more bonds will be sold (Continued on Page 12, Col. 2)

Little Hope Held Out For Rest Camp Monies

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—One of Gov. Rockefeller's bitterly contested budget cuts appeared likely to stand today while another seemed headed for modification.

Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino said Tuesday there was little chance that the $1,786,383 appropriation for Mt. McGregor Veterans Rest Camp in Saratoga County would be restored to the budget. The camp will close March 31.

Carlino, meanwhile, told opponents of a 1½ million dollar cut in funds for the Barge Canal that at least part of the money would be restored.

Legislative opponents of the Barge Canal cut met Tuesday with representatives of the Budget Division and the Public Works Department.

Assemblywoman Mildred F. Taylor (R-Wayne County) said alternatives to the administration plan were discussed and that the legislators hoped to present concrete proposals soon.

Rockefeller, in recommending a $4,867,000 appropriation for the canal, proposed that roving crews of lock tenders supervise maintenance and traffic on the canal and that some floating maintenance units be scrapped.

The Civil Service Employees Assn., which has joined the legislators in their protest, estimates that 135 canal workers will be laid off and many others limited to part-time work.

Veterans groups had vigorously protested the closing of Mt. McGregor, which Rockefeller proposes to use as a children's annex to the Rome State School for Mental Defectives.

George E. Hubbard, superintendent of the camp, said yesterday that Mt. McGregor would be shut down March 31 and that lay-off notices have been given to the camp's employees.

A few of the 190 employees will be retained to maintain the camp, Hubbard said.

Assembly Is Flooded With Bills, Eyes Adjournment

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A flood of Gov. Rockefeller's program bills, with the approval of the powerful Rules Committee, went before the Assembly today, as the Legislature drove toward adjournment.

The Assembly Rules Committee decided Tuesday night to bring out for action today Rockefeller's program bills that would:

—Establish a statewide minimum wage of $1.

—Raise the maximum weekly benefits paid under unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation from $45 to $50.

—Put on the statewide ballot in November a proposition that the state borrow 75 million dollars for purchase of open land by the state and municipalities for parks and recreation areas.

—Raise the tax credit for small businesses from a maximum of $35 to a flat $100, saving the businesses $500,000 annually.

—Simplify calculation of the truck-mileage tax.

Require fingerprinting of arrested gamblers, provide stiffer penalties for them and make it easier for police to crack the central organizations of policy racketeers and bookmakers.

With the exception of the minimum wage bill, little trouble is expected by leaders in passing three Rockefeller measures.

The minimum-wage bill was reported out of committee despite considerable opposition in the ranks of the majority Republicans. Resort owners and the chief employer organizations are opposed.

This action was taken on other bills:

1. The Assembly gave final legislative passage to a controversial measure that would require school districts to provide bus transportation to pupils of both public and parochial schools who live more than 3 but less than 10 miles from their schools.

2. The Senate approved and sent to the Assembly a bill to tighten state controls over "non-agency adoptions," those made without participation by recognized welfare agencies. It also would make it easier to remove children from foster homes found to be unsuitable.

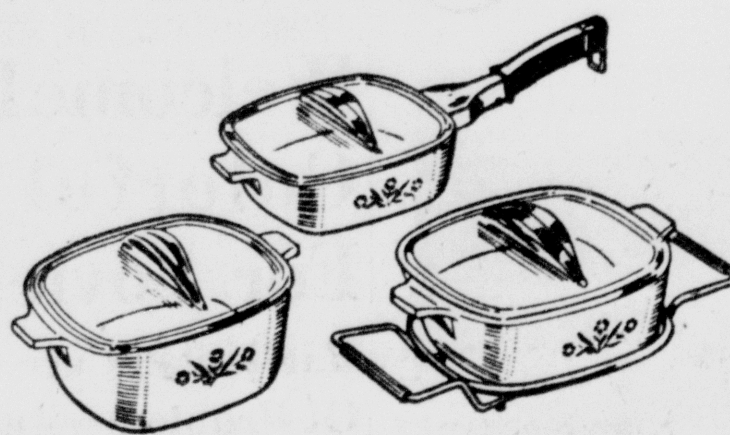

3. The Senate passed a proposed constitutional amendment that would carry out a key part of (Continued on Page 12, Col. 2)

$10,500 Bid Wins Man Genuine Lock and Dam

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—James N. Rice soon will become the owner of a genuine United States government lock and dam—but dam if he knows what he's going to do with it.

The property is U.S. Lock and Dam No. 1—there never was a No. 2—on the Osage River. It's 14 miles southeast of Jefferson City, near where the Osage empties into the Missouri.

Rice will become the owner because a bid of $10,500 he submitted proved to be the highest among 20 received by the General Services Administration.

Rice, 42, a bachelor who works for the State Detective Bureau was surprised when a newsmen told him the GSA had accepted his offer.

What will he do with his acquisition?

"Dam if I know. I hadn't given the matter any thought because I had no idea my bid would be high enough. I like to fish, and I understand the fishing is real good out there. I guess that's what was in the back of my mind when I bid on it. I might make a resort out of it sometime."

The rundown property includes about 10 acres of park-like land beside the river, three old frame houses, and several lesser structures. The concrete-base dam is 17 feet high and 220 feet long. Its lock is 42 feet wide.

The facility was built in the early 1900s to provide water for shallow-draft barges to make it up the river as far as Warsaw, Mo., 173 miles from the mouth. River traffic in those days was heavy, but construction of Bagnell Dam 25 miles upstream in the 1930s put No. 1 out of business.

The Corps of Engineers maintained No. 1 until nine years ago. As for paying for the lock and dam, Rice says he'll do it in cash, "but it will mean scraping the bottom of the barrel."

Titan Successful In Second Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Titan has passed its second long-range flight test and the Air Force expects to accelerate its test program to make up for time lost because of a series of failures.

One of the 98-foot intercontinental range giants successfully flew a 5,000-mile course Tuesday. This was the second Titan flight over this range in a month and raised Air Force hopes the missile has licked its problems.

A rash of explosions and other dating to last May have left the program several months behind schedule.

Powell and Jack End Feud; Now On 'Same Team'

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. and Manhattan Borough President Hulan E. Jack, New York City's top Negro politicians, say they have buried the hatchet and are now on the same Democratic "team."

A major goal of the team—centered in Manhattan—is to get more patronage jobs for Negroes. Jack long has been associated with Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization headed by Carmine G. DeSapio. Powell, who runs a large part of Harlem, recently has been thumbing his nose at the Tammany bosses downtown.

Jack Tuesday night joined the "United Democratic Leadership Team," which Powell has formed in Harlem during the past year. There was talk that Powell had warned Jack that he had better get in line—or else. But the congressman declared at a "team" news conference that there had been "no ultimatum and no capitulation." Jack was named chairman of "team."

Powell said the harsh words that were exchanged between him and Jack during the bitter primary fights in Harlem in 1958 and 1959 have been "wiped out of our thinking and our minds." Jack was then and is now a Democratic district leader in Harlem.

Blaze in Troy Claims 3rd Child

TROY, N. Y. (AP)—A third Walsh child died today as a result of a fire that swept their home Tuesday.

Thirteen-year-old William Walsh Jr. died in St. Mary's Hospital, where four other Walsh children and their father were under treatment.

Robert, 3, was reported in critical condition and his sister, Mary, 11, in poor condition.

In fair condition were Eddie, 10, and Timothy, 9.

The father, 38, was reported still in serious condition but responding to treatment.

The fire, which left 18 homeless in the three-family brick building, took the lives of two other Walsh children, Pauline, 2, and Kathleen Ann, 5.

8,000-Mile Call Protests Fight of Lion, Five Dogs

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—An irate San Francisco woman called 8,000 miles today to protest a fight between a hungry lion and five dogs staged in Naha last weekend.

The dog lover, Mrs. Malvina Wiest, placed an open call to the "commander of troops on Okinawa." The overseas operator connected her with the commandant of the U. S. Army headquarters here, Maj. Thomas R. Dent.

Dent, a native of Greensboro, N. C., told Mrs. Wiest that he would give her someone else since he had nothing to do with the matter but she refused to let him switch the call saying, "I paid my $12 for this three minutes and you will listen."

She told Dent: "I would like to keep your troops from going to those lion-dog fights. I know you can't keep the Okinawans from going but you can stop the American boys."

She also said Dent could expect to hear from about 40 other dog lovers in San Francisco who are going to place transoceanic phone calls.

The fight, staged in a Naha arena by an Okinawan promoter, was billed as a battle between a lion and five "vicious dogs." But the lion quickly chewed up the dogs, which one protesting GI spectator described as "terrified mongrels."

About 75 Americans and 35 Okinawans paid 75 cents each to see the spectacle. After witnessing part of the slaughter, many of them demanded that it be stopped and booed the promoters. Okinawan police and U. S. Army MPs restored order but did not stop the show.

Another performance is scheduled next Sunday, and an official of the U. S. civil administration of the Ryukyu Islands said "the show won't be held again if I have anything to do with it."

Detective Turns Banker For Chinese Woman

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Detective Thomas Brennan was keeping bankers' hours at the Elizabeth police station today.

Brennan said Lillian Oye Louie, a Chinese woman who speaks no English, first appeared a year and a half ago and left him a tin can crammed with $3,600 in cash, her husband's earnings.

Tuesday she came to headquarters again, waited for Brennan and gave him another $2,380. He has deposited the money in a bank account for her.

Soviet Visitors Praise Welcome Given on Tour

MOSCOW (AP)—Izvestia said today a group of Soviet officials who recently toured America reached the conclusion of most tourists—"The further you get from New York, the warmer the welcome."

The article in the government organ, titled "America Opens Its Heart," was one in a series dealing with the recent visit of a delegation headed by Dmitri S. Polyanski, premier of the Russian Federated Republic.

The article was loud in its praise of the warm reception given the visitors in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. (The visitors also called on New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, but when they visited City Hall they found Mayor Robert F. Wagner had another appointment.)

The mayor of one unnamed community presented them with the key to the city, saying, "This is the first given to foreign guests and we are glad it went to our Russian friends."

The key might not open locks, the article added, but it opened hearts.

Northern Students Joining Anti-Segregation Protest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spreading anti-segregation demonstrations by Negroes in the South are being given extensive support by Northern college students for the first time since the current protests began the first of February.

Yale divinity students plan a protest march today. Brown University boys and Skidmore College girls will continue picketing variety stores, and a U.S. senator's son is helping form a group at the University of Connecticut to raise funds for Negroes expelled for taking part in Southern sit-downs.

New Attack in South

In the South a new attack on segregation barriers has been started in Alabama. Demonstrations have spread to a Tennessee art gallery and there have been more sitdowns in several states.

These and other racial developments from Texas to Massachusetts marked growing agitation over segregation practices, with lunch counters still the main targets. Only a few arrests were reported Tuesday, however.

Seven Negroes, including one expelled from Alabama State College—applied for enrollment at the white University of Alabama center at Montgomery, a night school where high school graduates take part-time courses for college credits.

Marzette Watts was ousted from Alabama State for taking part in an anti-segregation demonstration.

At Memphis, Tenn., police arrested 23 Negro students during new demonstrations at the public art gallery and at a downtown branch library. Seven students were arrested inside the Brooks Memorial Art Gallery and six others outside. Ten students were arrested in the segregated reading room at the library.

More than 150 Negro students staged nonviolent sitdowns at five variety stores in Houston, Tex.

At Storrs, Conn., a group of University of Connecticut students also made plans to form a fund raising committee. Among them was Jeremy Dodd, a 19-year-old sophomore and the son of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.).

Wheaton College students formed a committee at Norton, Mass., to solicit funds for the legal defense of Negro students expelled from Alabama State.

SOCIAL SECURITY ISSUE

A combination of circumstances probably will leave Congress with less time to legislate than it has had available in the past several years. In the first place, this being a presidential election year, Congressmen will want to be off to the nominating conventions early in July. The civil rights debate has taken up valuable time.

It is evident that a number of bills concerning important matters will have to be set over for the new Congress. But one subject, even though certain to arouse strong partisan feeling, will almost certainly not be set aside. This is liberalization of social security benefits, which would add greatly to the social tax burdens on every covered worker and on employers.

Whatever might be said for these "extras," public confidence and support for the Social Security cash-benefit program we now have could be completely undermined if the social tax burden upon workers is greatly increased.

Basically, Social Security is intended to provide a "floor of protection" cash benefit against want and destitution—chiefly to persons 65 years or more who because of age can no longer support themselves by working.

The existing program alone will require a 50 per cent increase in taxes in the next 10 years to assure that cash benefits will be forthcoming as promised.

Legislation now before the House Ways and Means Committee would pay for hospitalization, nursing home care and surgical treatment for persons eligible for Social Security benefits. The bill would cost approximately two billion dollars more in social taxes on employees and workers during its first year of operation.

Proponents of this measure insist that a nation as wealthy as the United States should be able to provide adequate medical care for all its aged. They maintain further that privately supported plans have proven inadequate to the job.

The American Medical Association and some other groups are convinced that a program of this kind under the auspices of the federal government would lead inevitably to socialized medicine and the resultant deterioration in the quality of medical care.

BUD-WATCHING

Once in awhile the poets, thrumming their harps of melodious language, come up unconsciously with a comic note—as when one of the breed, chanting of the ethereal skylark, addressed it as "happy, happy liver." And once in awhile the publicity men, striving to sell goods and services, hit upon unconscious poetry.

One of them did so the other day in a release about the merits of spraying horse-chestnut trees just as the buds have burst into leaf. From this rather mundane piece there emerged a delightful hyphenated word: bud-watching.

The word puts a name to an early spring-time pursuit we have always thought especially rewarding. Nothing is more expressive of earth's great vernal reawakening than the leaf buds as they swell and at last unfurl their green flags in salute. To watch their progress is to watch the very progress of spring.

KITE FLYING TIME

Kite flying time soon will be here again. It is one of the oldest and best of juvenile diversions. But there can be danger in it as well as fun.

Here are some safety rules of kite flying: Don't fly a kite with metal in the frame or tail.

Don't use tinsel-string, wire or twine that has any metal in it.

Don't fly a kite near electric power lines. Don't fly a kite over radio or TV aerials.

Never pull on a string or climb a power pole to loosen a snagged kite.

Don't touch fallen electric wires.

Don't run across streets or highways while flying kites.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
"EAST-WEST"

Words influence ideas and actions. The incorrect use of words produces incorrect ideas. It used to be that Soviet Russia was called Soviet Russia; that the satellites were called satellites; that the complex of Communist countries was referred to as Communist countries.

All of a sudden, the Communist nations are called East; the free nations are called West. For the Soviet complex, one might use the term, the Soviet Universal State, but that has not taken with the general public which has an insufficient grasp of history to recognize what it means. It is a good term because that is what Marxism seeks to establish, a single state based on one ideal of life and utilizing one technique of government and one control of the means of production and distribution.

The use of "East-West" is strictly fraudulent because it covers up a multitude of facts. For instance, are Greece, Turkey, Israel, Iran, West? Geographically, they are East but east of what? If we say that the West is representative of the NATO powers, is Nationalist China East? Where is the line of demarcation? Is Cuba East or West? Is India, East, West, or nowhere? In the struggle for the control of men, there is no geographical line. The word, East, surely fits West Berlin as it fits East Berlin, but one is anti-Marxist and the other is Marxist.

The present struggle for survival is not geographical. It is essentially a struggle over ideas, over ways of life, over philosophies of existence. The struggle transcends geography, as President Eisenhower discovered in Uruguay, if nowhere else. The terms, "East-West," are propagandistically employed in the United States and elsewhere among our allies for the purpose of avoiding the constant use of the term Communist or Marxist. It is amazing how skillful the Russians have been in inventing self-serving words and phrases which become current in countries where they serve Russia's purposes.

The "Spirit of Camp David," a new device of confusion, apparently requires the avoidance of dirty words. But what is the "Spirit of Camp David"? It applies to a private conversation between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev at a Presidential retreat called Camp David. What they said to each other is a secret. Therefore we have no idea as to what the spirit is. Perhaps it is a kind of political ecotoplasm that floats about catching Strontium 90 until we are all suffocated by it. The phrase was not first employed in the United States.

Although we do not know what the "Spirit of Camp David" is or means, we do observe that it has certain characteristics. It ushered in a go-as-you-please quarrel with Soviet Russia; created an atmosphere favorable to the Summit Conference. Khrushchev seems to take kindly to this atmosphere personally, but Mikoyan came to Cuba to stimulate antagonism to the United States in Cuba, 90 miles off the coast of Florida; the Berlin question was raised to the state of a brink; the Arab-Israeli crisis was elevated from a flicker to a flame; the Communists in South America gave President Eisenhower an unpleasant reception wherever they could. In a word, the deed did not quite follow the spirit.

The "Spirit of Camp David" is not altogether a smooth and kindly poltergeist laboring for the peace of the world. It looks more like one side has fallen for gentle talk while the other side does the same kind of business at the same stand—only a new sign-board has been put up.

Instead of the misnomer, "East-West," designed to mislead, let us use the simple terms, Soviet, Communist, Marxist for the euphemism some now call East, and for West, let us use the synthetic term, "Free World." This term is sufficiently descriptive although it is a misnomer, but it is our misnomer and we know what we mean. That is, we know that we mean those countries which are allied or associated with us and most of which have some form of constitutional government and pursue some kind of a capitalist or mixed economy.

It makes sense to be precise about language. It makes sense to strike down propagandistic terms designed to confuse our people.

The "Spirit of Camp David"—indeed! I wonder if anyone anywhere could write a philosophic document explaining it.

Give Your Baby Best Eye Care That Is Available

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Did it ever occur to you that you came into this world equipped with a pair of "TV cameras" that make it possible for you to get long shots as far as the horizon and zooming close-ups at a few inches distance, with each picture stereoscopic in three dimensions and in the full range of living color?

I'll have to admit that those eyes of yours have their limitations. They don't print tapes. But, with the aid of a storehouse that's located somewhere in your brain, they'll preserve images you can project in your "mind's eye" whenever and wherever you get the notion.

And they have other selling points. Their diaphragms (irises) and lens systems operate automatically so you don't have to hire a crew to adjust and run them.

They have a built-in watering system that supplies tears to keep them moist and clean while they're in use. And they come with a set of installed blinkers that shut out the light when you're ready for sleep.

Here are some suggestions that, with a little bit of luck, will help you get maximum use out of your "cameras" with a minimum of maintenance troubles and expense:

When you get your first look at your newborn's eyes, don't be upset if they appear reddened and gummy. They've just been treated with drops of an anti-infective solution according to the dictates of good medical practice and the law.

By this simple means, they've been protected from the damage that used to be caused by infections (ophthalmia neonatorum) contracted during the voyage through the birth canal.

Don't object to the extra expense involved in a consultation with an eye specialist if your baby has to be put in an oxygen tent because of prematurity or some congenital abnormality. Too little oxygen may cost your child its best chance for healthy survival.

But too much oxygen may injure the delicate retinal membrane with resultant impairment of vision if not total blindness (retrolental fibroplasia).

Don't worry if your baby's eyes turn a bit in (cross-eyes) or out (walleyes) for the first 6 months of its life. It takes time for the 12 eye muscles (six in each set) to get working in perfect unison.

But if your baby's eyes fail to respond to visual stimuli after a few days or if they fail to achieve co-ordinated movement after 6 months, consult an eye specialist (oculist or ophthalmologist).

Do not, because of a critical shortage of trained oculists (fewer than 5,000 diplomates of the American Board of Ophthalmology in the U.S.A.), place the responsibility for your own or your baby's visual health on an optometrist or optician since neither has been trained or licensed to diagnose or treat diseases of the eye.

For further information about qualified physicians, contact the nearest branch of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. If your local directory or telephone book has no listing, communicate with the main office at 1790 Broadway, New York City 19, N. Y.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON, (NEA) — How to unite conservative groups in the United States for concerted political action in 1960 now being looked into by a few right wing leaders.

There are a score or more of these fringe movements now in operation.

Each is characterized by a little band of zealots mad at one thing: government spending or taxes, low tariffs, socialized medicine, integration, the United Nations, foreign aid, or internationalism in general.

THESE SPLINTER GROUPS have never been able to put their splinters together into planks that would make a platform they could all stand on or under.

A principal reason is that all these causes have never had one leader to rally behind.

But the emergence of Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona as a possible champion has stirred a spark of life on the reactionary right.

Goldwater has a little book coming out soon. It's a 20,000-word job titled, "Conscience of a Conservative."

People who have read it say it covers all the issues mentioned above and then some.

If it is found acceptable to enough of these minority groups, maybe they've got themselves a bible—which this book is intended to be—and maybe they've got themselves a boy.

"ALL OUR PEOPLE are 100 per cent for Barry Goldwater," says Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers, national director of the "For America" movement.

In 1956 this group backed the Hon. T. Coleman Andrews of Virginia for president. He was on the ticket in 18 states and polled 175,000 votes. They'll have to do better than that.

Leaders of "For America" will be meeting in Washington about April 1. Their principal target now is to kill the foreign aid program.

One of the newer conservative fronts to open headquarters in Washington is "Americans for Constitutional Action"—ACA. It was organized by Ex-Gov. Charles Edison of New Jersey, Admiral Ben Moreel and others. Kenneth W. Ingwalson, formerly with American Farm Bureau Federation, is its executive director, and AFB is backing ACA. Ex-Sen. Owen Brewster (R-Maine) is its political adviser.

But demonstrating that right wingers seldom get together, ACA is working solely to stimulate support for conservative candidates for Congress and for governor. So far, it isn't bothering about the presidential race.

OTHER FRACTIONS on the conservative front include "Defenders of the American Constitution," headed by Gen. P. A. Del Valle. It issues a monthly "Task Force" bulletin which opposes internationalism in all its forms.

"Human Events," most reactionary and probably the most quoted of all right wing leaflets, is also published here under the editorship of Frank C. Hanighen. Most vocal of the southern reactionaries—outside of Congress—is Kent Courtney of New Orleans who published "Independent American." He has called a convention of conservatives in Jackson, Miss., for May 6-7, to oppose civil rights.

Robert Welch is editing from Belmont, Mass., a pocket magazine "Public Opinion" which has the backing of leaders in many of the other movements.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

March 23, 1940—An overnight low temperature of 15 degrees marked the coldest day here in five years on this date.

Philip Elting, Ulster Co. Republican leader, who had been ill at the Benedictine Hospital, returned home.

Area farmers reported favorable sap weather.

The car of Levan Bryant, of Gate Street, rolled down the Broadway hill from Mill Street and crashed into the Mansion House building.

March 23, 1950—Heavy rains replenished area water to some extent on this date when New York City was due to start its rainmaking experiment.

Jean Gindorff, of New York, an expert on railroad matters, said he saw no hope of getting the O&W Railroad out of the red.

The annual Shriners Ball netted $1,714 for the Children's Home.

A record attendance of 2,718 was reported at the Kingston Lions Club's "Kingston Area Parade."

Democrats' Interest Stand Called Peril to Economy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—While every body is looking the other way at disarmament conferences and the gyrations of Presidential candidates, a piece of political sabotage is going on in Washington that could be dangerous to the economy of the country in the immediate future.

The sabotage consists of a deliberate interference in the Treasury Department's management of the public debt. The interference is coming from a group of so-called "liberals" in the Democratic party.

Whether it's partisan politics or sheer demagoguery, the fact is that the Treasury, which has the job of refunding billions of dollars of debt each year, is stymied by the refusal of the Democratic party in Congress as a whole to co-operate with a Republican President. This is a big price to pay for the privilege of having a divided government.

Certainly the right to determine what interest rates the public will pay for long-term or short-term securities belongs to the Treasury Department, which has to watch carefully the most complicated factors of the law of supply and demand in the credit markets of the country. The Treasury feels out the market carefully and pays the rate it believes will attract investors.

But the Democrats in Congress have put up a roadblock. They insist that the Treasury may not pay more than 4 1/2 per cent for securities that mature more than five years hence, but that the Treasury can offer as high a rate as it wishes for securities that are repayable in five years or less.

This means that the Treasury is deprived of its power to deal effectively with a refunding of the tens of billions of dollars of the national debt that come due each year. It is frustrating for a government which has so powerful an influence on world credit, and on interest rates throughout Europe especially, to find itself hampered in these delicate and vital financial transactions.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The revolution which separated Panama from the United States of Columbia, formerly New Granada, was arranged by connivance or instigation of President Theodore Roosevelt. Thus, Columbia lost a small jungle state whose principal value lay in its power as a blackmail weapon primarily against our United States, but ultimately against the whole world.

Columbia could not then build the Panama Canal and the same United States of Columbia could not build it today without foreign money, machinery, brains, and our permission. But for Theodore Roosevelt's realism in 1903 there would be no canal today either in Panama or Nicaragua. This country would have stood on the Monroe Doctrine and kept out any foreign enterprise except with our participation and veto.

The Colombians had no popular patriotism. The "army" which got drunk and happily joined the "revolution" to succeed, received $50 (Mex.) for each barefoot private. Colonel Eliseo Torres, commanding one unit, got $8,000 in monetary adjustment of Colombia's feelings.

These and other minor details are related by Earl Harding, then and for years afterward of the New York World under Pulitzer whose personal knowledge of the historic facts is now committed to a small treasury of historic information under the title "The Untold Story of Panama."

This was published in April last year by Athene Press, New York.

Harding freely admits uncouth facts of the dissipation of the sovereignty of a nothing-nation of barefoot illiterates with no flag-patriotism. He depicts our own descent to vulgarity in behalf of humanity, progress and our manifest destiny of those times.

The Colombian gunboat Bogota, in Panama harbor, fired five shells to compel the revolutionary heroes to release two Colombian generals who had been drinking champagne for some hours. One of these bombs killed either a Chinese peddler or his donkey.

Mr. Harding writes that General Esteban Huertas, commander of the Colombian garrison in Panama, got $30,000 in silver plus a bonus award "later" of $50,000 gold. His subordinate officers got grants of silver dollars in multiples of thousands.

The revolution occurred on Nov. 3, 1903. On Nov. 2, the Colombian gunboat Cartagena landed 500 soldiers at Colon under General Tovar and Amaya. In Panama City the conspirators decided to lure the generals from Colon to Panama.

James R. Shaler, superintendent of the American railroad across the Isthmus, went to the Colon dock, greeted generals Tovar and Amaya and escorted them to a special car of a train for Panama. Shaler then blew the whistle. The generals' car pulled out without waiting for their troops, and delivered them into the power of General Huertas, who had joined the revolution. They were entertained until evening when Huertas ordered his valiantes to capture them with fixed bayonets in the name of the revolution.

The new republic assumed all contract responsibilities of the Colombian government toward the American Railroad Company. The railroad company's office in Colon then yielded $8,000 from a safe to propitiate colonel Torres. Shaler pledged the railroad's honor and credit to pay the passage of the colonel's command from Colon back to Columbia.

November 4 was election day in the United States and the only news of the event in the New York Herald via Galveston played in a lower corner of page one. The rest of the American press seems to have had nothing at all.

Early on November 4, Mr. Harding wrote, a Doctor Amador, a Colombian Panamanian, "made a rousing speech to General Huertas and his soldiers in Panama. The soldier and a mob of civilians then carried General Huertas in a chair around the plaza flanked by the doctor carrying a new Panama flag and Felix Ehrman. The U. S. consul-general, carrying the Stars and Stripes. The parade ended with bottles of champagne doused on the head of the general of the revolution.

Later the same day an assemblage in the municipal council chamber elected a provisional government and a cabinet. The exultant multitude now massed before the cathedral to hear their new constitution read aloud by Carlos A. Mendoza, their new minister of justice.

The prime leader of the coup wired Washington demanding $100,000 which General Buneau-Varilla, a French relic of the defunct Panama Canal project of a Panama Canal, had promised the patriot-rebels. Buneau-Varilla "came through with $25,000." So, on the 6th of November, in Washington, he received his appointment as envoy extraordinary and plenipotentiary from Panama to accept recognition from President Theodore Roosevelt. This was done on Nov. 13 at the White House.

But now a report came up from Panama that a "special commission" was sailing for Washington to negotiate a treaty of relations. So Buneau-Varilla hurriedly put together a treaty which stands today, establishing the "sovereignty" of Panama in these words:

"(Panama) grants to the United States of America, all the rights, power and authority . . . which the (latter) would possess and exercise if it were the sovereign of the territory . . . to the entire exclusion of the exercise by Panama of any such sovereign rights, power of authority."

So the canal was built by the genius and capital of this country, yellow fever was conquered, Panama became a subsidized, prosperous republic without responsibility or effort arising from a primitive jungle state, and the whole world enjoyed the immeasurable profit of this short cut from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Fog Bogs Ceremony

FAIRMONT, Minn. (AP) — Everyone cooperated except the weather for the inauguration of airline service to Fairmont. The mayor, a band and a good turnout of townspeople were on hand for the inaugural landing by North Central Airlines. The band played and the mayor cut a ceremonial ribbon as an un-corn plane dived past overhead. The airport was covered with a soupy fog and the airliner had to pass it by.

The damage, of course, is largely within the United States. Homebuilding is in for serious setbacks, and this could affect the entire economy and be one of the factors that brings on an economic recession. The National Association of Home Builders is worried. First it was against the interest change, but now it has sent out a letter to its members urging all of them to write to their Congressmen at once to give "strong support" to a change in the interest rate ceiling "at the earliest possible date." Commenting on this, "The Wall Street Journal," in an editorial today, says in part:

"When the Treasury was forced to borrow its billions on short-term notes alone, short-term interest rates went sky-rocketing. Last fall the Treasury had to pay 5 per cent for notes maturing in less than five years. So, not unnaturally, people who had money in savings banks and building associations at much less interest, drew out their money and bought the Treasury notes."

See the home builders discovered that "the Treasury's unavoidable financing activities are draining money out of the very institutions on which we must rely for mortgage credit." And they concluded that if the Treasury isn't permitted to meet the going interest rates in the long-term market, where it can spread its debt around, "we are all going to suffer severely."

"So there you are. Those who refused to let the Treasury deal sensibly with the realities of the marketplace have brought about the very thing they professed they would avoid."

The "liberal" Democrats now are saying that, because in recent weeks interest rates generally have shown a tendency to decline, this is a vindication of their viewpoint. But the effects of the blow dealt to the Treasury in its power to handle borrowings flexibly will not be so easily removed. The present decline is temporary, and it may even be the precursor of a downward trend in business due to the frustrations in home-building.

Sen. Prescott Bush of Connecticut, Republican, a former investment banker, told the Senate today that the business world sees this problem as non-political. He added:

"I say to my friends across the aisle that they're a new set of gamblers. They're speculating with the national credit. It's a reckless thing that they do. They're speculating with this issue because they think they've got a hot political issue. It is most dangerous. I beg them to drop this and give the Treasury a free hand."

Conservative Democrats agree with Sen. Bush, but the so-called "liberals" seem bent on interfering with the Treasury's operations—something that could spell economic trouble for America at a fateful time in her history. (Reproduction Rights Reserved.)

Niagara and Erie Employment Gain Highest Since '57

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Industrial employment in Niagara and Erie counties reached 183,200 in mid-February, its highest level in two years.

The State Division of Employment said Tuesday that non-factory jobs dipped seasonally between mid-January and mid-February, but were 8,700 higher than a year ago.

The Niagara frontier was one of the hardest hit by the recession and had 161,500 working in major industry at the lowest point in October 1958.

The pre-recession boom was 203,000 in August 1957.

The current employment figure was 2,000 over the mid-January figure. Last year factory employment was 176,800.

$70 Million to Be Spent on Remodeling

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—More than 70 million dollars will be spent this school year by 80 private colleges and universities in New York State to build and remodel student facilities.

A survey by a commission of the State Assn. of Colleges and Universities, made public Tuesday, showed that the construction would create facilities for 9,496 additional full-time undergraduate students by next September.

The 80 colleges now have a total enrollment of 218,532.

NEW YORK (AP)—A popular index of stock price averages is designed to tell you the daily changes in market sentiment—the urge to buy vs. the urge to sell. But a side benefit of a long-time one is the mirror it holds up to the changes in U. S. industry itself over the years.

The make-up of the older averages have been changed many times. Whole industrial groups have disappeared from the lists, outmoded by the restless interests of Americans. Industries unheard of, or scarcely noted, at the time an index made its debut have wormed their way onto the list and then expanded to commanding positions.

Only Two Survivors

The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks contains only two survivors from the first list of 12 set up in 1897. They are General Electric and American Tobacco.

Three companies on the first Dow-Jones average no longer exist: Distilling & Cattle Feeding, U. S. Leather and North American—a utility holding company. Tennessee Coal & Iron is now a division of U. S. Steel on the present list but not the original, and Chicago Gas is now part of Peoples Gas Light & Coke, now listed on the 15 utility stock average.

The other five members of the 1897 team, dropped in the readjustments along the way as the stock market's aspect changed, were: American Cotton Oil, American Sugar, Laclede Gas, National Lead and U. S. Rubber.

Whole industries once represented on the list have disappeared for various reasons. They include: steamship, manufactured gas, motion pictures, cordage, beet sugar, leather and tanning, steam locomotive and railroad car companies.

Three Chemicals Now

Other industries have made an entrance as they grew in stature in the nation's economy. The first chemical, Du Pont, appeared in 1924. There are three chemicals now. Allied joining in 1925 and Union Carbide in 1928.

Texaco was an oil pioneer in 1914, was off for awhile and now back. First permanent oil member was California Standard, in 1924, followed by Jersey Standard in 1928.

Hudson Motors and Studebaker came and went on the list. The two motors there now are General Motors, since 1925; and Chrysler, since 1928.

Besides the changing fortunes of individual industries, substitutions have been made when the price of a particular share was rising so fast and going so high that it carried too much weight in the averages.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Urbane and suave Rex Harrison was the star of the NBC Startime comedy Tuesday night, but even the best efforts of that skillful performer couldn't save "Dear Arthur."

The problem was the play itself, written—too many years ago—by Ferenc Molnar. As adapted by Gore Vidal it remained definitely dated. The idea is that a con man invents a husband for his rich, attractive daughter to keep fortune hunters away and then to attract a suitor. But the fun never began and the lines just weren't there.

It was given a handsome production, the players worked hard, but they just didn't have the material to help them.

Surely, TV must be capable of amusing drawing-room comedy. Maybe we'll get one next season.

David Susskind, whose production company has turned out about 40 special shows for the three major networks this season, will not attempt any more television adaptations of old motion picture hits.

"No matter how good the show, no matter how hard you work, you can only wind up the loser," says Susskind. "The public endows its favorite old movies with a special kind of nostalgia."

His plans for next year, however, include a lot of special, hour-long shows. In the drafting stage is a series of eight satirical revues starring Mike Nichols and Elaine May. There is also a series adapted from classics of the family bookshelf — "The Sea Wolf," "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Vanity Fair," "Pickwick Papers" and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" among them.

NBC's "new" series, "Producer's Choice," which starts March 31, is just a bunch of repeats culled from the old Schlitz Playhouse and GE Theater files. It goes into the spot — Thursday, 8:30-9 p.m.—vacated by ill-starred "Johnny Staccato," but fans of that action with jazz background series can find it Sundays at 10:30 p.m. on ABC starting March 27.

Recommended tonight: "Music for a Spring Night," ABC, 7:30-8.

with performances by a group of stars now appearing on and off Broadway: Eileen Brennan, Dody Goodman, Pamela Charles among them; Steel Hour, CBS, 10-11 — "The Charlie and the Kid," a circus story with Richard Boone playing a clown.

Reliability

Two very practical advantages of 1960 Cadillac ownership are minimal maintenance costs and exceptional resale worth. Both have been continuous Cadillac virtues for fifty-eight years, as revealed by the fact that almost half of all the cars ever built by Cadillac are operating today—and thirty thousand of these have been on the road for twenty years or more. This notable record of reliability added to the remarkable operating economy makes the Cadillac for 1960 the wisest of motoring investments.

Plattekill Renovations Get Underway Locally At Fatima Chapel

PLATTEKILL—Internal renovations and structural adjustments are moving ahead in the parish house of Our Lady of Fatima Chapel, Plattekill, the Rev. Anthony Sagrera, CR made known at Sunday's Holy Masses. The stripping of certain internal ceilings started Monday.

The resident pastor made known that Walter Smith was elected president of the Holy Name Society at a recent meeting. Other officers elected were James Porcelli, treasurer and John Tomasello, secretary. Charles Martino will be chairman of the Catholic Charities drive. The assisting co-chairman will be Mrs. Frank LaGatutta. Father Sagrera administered the Holy Rites of Baptism for the first time here to Ramona Ann Castro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Castro, Hilltop Haven, Plattekill, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Echeandia, Plattekill, were sponsors by proxy for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Damburlin, Buffalo.

The pastor mapped tentative plans for the landscaping of the chapel grounds. There will be 200 trees planted next month.

Confessions will be heard Saturday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock and from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. Wednesday and Friday Lenten devotions will begin at 8 p. m. with the Rosary, the Stations of the Cross, sermon and Benediction. Holy Mass is offered every morning at 9 o'clock. Chapel choir meets Mondays, 7 p. m.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Motion Picture Academy still hasn't solved its supporting-actor problem.

The support category in the Oscar sweepstakes has vexed Hollywood ever since 1944. That was the year when Barry Fitzgerald was nominated for both star and support awards for his performance in "Going My Way."

Still Not the Answer

Absurd? Of course. The academy has kept changing its rules ever since. Fitzgerald finally won for support. For awhile, actors in bit parts permitted themselves to be demoted to supporting class to qualify in that less competitive race. Now the academy rules that any actor with star billing must compete in the star race.

That still isn't the answer, as you can see in the case of Stephen Boyd. Recently he won the Hollywood Foreign Press award as best supporting player because of his work in "Ben-Hur." Yet he drew no Oscar nomination, because he had star billing in the film.

"Ridiculous!" declares the outspoken Irishman. "I was a supporting player in the picture. Every other role in 'Ben-Hur' was in support of Chuck Heston. 'Why, not counting the chariot sequence, my role lasted only a half-hour on the screen. Now how can you call that a starring role?'"

Speaks Own Mind

Boyd has always managed to speak his mind in this town. His bosses were taken aback when he refused to take the role of Boaz in "The Story of Ruth."

"It's a good script, but I felt I couldn't add anything to the role," he said. "It wouldn't have helped me and it wouldn't have helped the picture."

He was equally vocal about wanting to do "Let's Make Love" with Marilyn Monroe after Gregory Peck walked out of the lead. But it went to Yves Montand instead.

"That was a part I could have done," Boyd complained. "The studio didn't think I could do comedy."

241 Prime Contracts Awarded Small Firms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Small business firms in New York State were awarded 241 prime government contracts worth $5,896,390 during January, a New Jersey congressman reports.

New York was second in the nation in the amount of these contracts, which were set aside by the government specifically for small businesses. The contracts do not include subcontracts awarded to small business firms by large manufacturers.

Rep. Frank C. Osmers Jr. (R-N.J.), a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said Tuesday that New Jersey with 119 contracts worth $7,068,875, led the nation.

California, which received 187 contracts valued at $4,483,620, was third.

In all, 1,788 government contracts valued at $53,007,853 were awarded during January, he said.

with Mrs. Nelson Hedges and Mrs. Burton Ward of Modena, as hostesses, was postponed to Thursday, March 24. At this time, program leader will be Mrs. Ward, with a two-fold subject for discussion, on migrants, and race relations.

Paul Myran has been drawn on the panel jury to serve at the April 4 term of court at Kingston.

Assisting Mrs. Burton Ward, chairman, in collecting funds in the annual American Red Cross campaign in this area, were Mrs. Gerow Wilkin, Carmine Sabatone, Carol Hoffman, William Doolittle.

House Group Is Studying Cornell Research Center

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House appropriations subcommittee investigating budget requests by the Agriculture Department is considering appropriation of $1,400,000 for a soil research center at Cornell University.

Rep. Harold C. Ostertag (R-NY) yesterday urged the committee to provide money for the center. The center would conduct studies in soil, water and plant relationships, plant and soil nutrition and watershed hydrology.

However, no funds were requested by the Agriculture Department for construction of a center either in New York or Pennsylvania, as recommended in a recent Senate study.

Despite an apparent lack of Eisenhower administration support, Ostertag's appeal could bear some weight with the appropriations committee.

Ostertag, who said he was appearing on behalf of the entire New York congressional delegation, is a member of the subcommittee, as is Rep. Alfred Santangelo (D-NY). Rep. John Taber (R-NY), another proponent of the center, is the ranking Republican member.

However, Ervin L. Peterson, assistant secretary of agriculture, said in testimony released yesterday that it will be from three to six years before the department is ready to ask Congress for money to set up the center. Peterson said existing research facilities should be strengthened before new centers were built.

Walt Disney's True Life Adventures

Commission Seeks No Change in Rule

WASHINGTON (AP)—The refusal of the Tariff Commission to recommend a quota on leather glove imports points up the inadequacy of this country's trade policy, Sen. Jacob K. Javits charges.

The commission has recommended no change in regulations governing the imports, despite requests from the domestic glove industry. The commission ruled the imports do not adversely affect domestic glove producers.

Javits said Tuesday the United States had no adequate policy to protect the worker, manufacturer and consumer in such cases and could give no financial aid or other help to industries adversely affected by imports that must be permitted in the national interest.

The senator said he was drafting legislation to provide assistance to workers and industries forced to adjust their operations because of necessary imports.

The government now levies an import duty on gloves. The industry asked a higher duty and an annual quota on imports.

Portable Atomic Reactor to Begin Action in Summer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A portable atomic reactor, built at Dunbar, N. Y., will begin furnishing power and heat for an advance scientific station on the Greenland icecap late this summer.

The U. S. Army said yesterday that the United States and Denmark, which owns Greenland, had approved a plan for installing the nuclear power plant at Camp Century, 150 miles east of the big Thule Air Base.

Camp Century is an advance base of the Army's Polar Research and Development Center and is located atop the icecap. The power plant will be erected in a snow tunnel at the base.

It is being built by Alco Products Inc. under a $3,226,500 contract and will be delivered to the Army May 20. Then it will be shipped by air to Greenland.

The power unit uses a pressurized water system to transfer heat to produce steam. It will provide about 1,500 kilowatts of electricity for power and space-heating needs and produces an additional 1,000 pounds of steam to melt snow. The melted snow will provide water to produce steam.

The Army said that diesel fuel delivered by air costs more than a dollar a gallon at Camp Century and that about one million gallons are needed each year "for power and heat at the camp."

The atomic plant, the Army said, will meet all requirements for 12 months on a single loading of enriched uranium fuel, which can be carried into the camp in one plane.

Waverly Man Is Accused in Death Of Stepson, 2½

OWEGO, N. Y. (AP)—Ernest L. Sledge, 27, of Waverly, was in jail today, facing trial on charges of second-degree murder and second-degree assault in the beating of his 2½-year-old stepson.

Sledge pleaded innocent Tuesday. The boy, Murray Hoose, died Feb. 26 in Robert Packer Hospital at Sayre, Pa. He allegedly was beaten Jan. 20 and again Feb. 17. Judge Francis J. Clohesy of Tioga County Court ordered Sledge held in jail. Bail was set at $10,000. No trial date was set.

Ike Names PMs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has sent to the Senate three nominations for postmaster in New York State.

They are Anna M. Phillips at Ellington, Mary L. Galpin at Kanana and Shirley C. Egler at Mountainville.

Local Technician Is Now on Staff Of Watrous Firm

Engaged in the television and electronics field for the last 8½ years, Henry W. Schulze has joined the staff of L. B. Watrous, Inc., 693 Broadway, as technician. Prior to serving four years in the U. S. Navy as a radar and electronics technician, he operated his own TV service in Kingston two and a half years.

Since being discharged from the Navy he has been employed in TV work in this city.

Since his discharge from the Navy he has attended the RCA Color TV School in Albany, has completed the Admiral Color TV course in Albany, where he familiarized himself with the latest testing equipment for color TV. Schulze also attended the course for technicians in the Motorola Transistor School at Middletown, taking the training course for technicians in the field of both color and black TV and also the transistor circuits. He has also completed the Philco transistor TV course at Albany.

Through completion of the various courses in both black and color TV, as well as courses in transistor circuits, Schulze has become familiar with the latest equipment in the electronics field which is used at the service of TV, stereo and Hi-Fi, as well as being equipped for alignment of television for perfect reception.

The firm of L. B. Watrous, Inc., was established in 1925 and has been at its location on Broadway near Franklin Street for several years. All shop service required on TV is done with the latest equipment for quick service on the premises. Home service is checked through the latest in electronic testing devices.

Frye Will Build In Newburgh Area

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Frye Manufacturing Co., producer of carbon papers, plans to build a $270,000 factory in New Windsor, near Newburgh.

The State Commerce Department said today the company expected to employ 40 area persons at the outset. Frye employs 175 at its main plant in Des Moines. Robert Barkus of Des Moines will manage the New Windsor plant. Harold J. Adams of Newburgh will construct the single-story building on a five-acre site. The factory will be the company's eastern branch. Frye also has a plant in Decatur, Ga.

Repairs Scheduled For Road Sections

Sections of Route 213 on both sides of the Eddyville bridge are due for repair, a state engineer said today.

A short section between the bridge and the Kingston City line will be done by state highway maintenance men, and another extending some two miles south of the span is to be repaired by contract. Bids are expected to be called for during the spring or summer.

Supervisor John Glennon, 12th Ward, today reported receiving the following letter from Kurt G. Rueter, district engineer (Poughkeepsie office) of the State Department of Public Works:

"Referring to your letter of Feb. 7, 1960, addressed to Superintendent McMoran, the portion of Route 213 between the Eddyville bridge and the Kingston City line will be improved by our department forces this year and it is anticipated that there will be a contract let early in the season for the improvement of a two-mile section south of the new Eddyville (bridge) project."

Flemming Bares

the number of children getting benefits.

The secretary explained that under present law if there are two children and one child goes to work and has his benefit withheld the other child is still not eligible for the full 3% benefit.

Would Benefit 900,000

The secretary estimated about 900,000 children would get the increase immediately as a result of this proposal. He said this would mean additional benefits totaling about 60 million dollars in 1961, increasing later to an average of about 65 million dollars a year.

3. That self-employed physicians be included under the Social Security system on the same basis as are other self-employed people now covered.

Such coverage has been consistently opposed by organized doctors every time it has been proposed.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon reportedly has been insisting that Republicans provide some alternative to a Democratic plan for adding health care to social security benefits.

A White House conference on the subject with GOP Congressional leaders Tuesday produced reports that the administration would sponsor no government plan as such for financing health care for the aged.

Negligence Case Begins in Court

A negligence action brought by Joseph Elefant, Ashokan grocery store proprietor, against Emil Raicht and another to recover $50,000 damages for injuries which were suffered on March 23, 1958, was taken up for trial in Supreme Court Tuesday before Justice Herbert D. Hamm and a jury.

At the time of the accident Elefant was crossing the highway after delivering groceries to a customer when he was struck by the Raicht car which was proceeding east on Route 28 from the Highmountain ski center.

The car was being operated by the son of the owner, Richter and Werbalowsky, with Michael Nardone as trial counsel, appeared for plaintiff and Wilson and Bave appear for defendants.

Youth Remanded To County Jail For House Entry

A 16-year-old Saugerties youth on probation was charged with burglary third degree at a preliminary examination this morning before Saugerties Police Justice William D. Brinnier and committed to Ulster County jail to await action of the grand jury.

Gerald R. Hill, a village resident, was discovered inside a neighbor's house Monday afternoon when William Vozdik of Finger Street came home unexpectedly. Hill in an attempt to escape through a bedroom window broke through a storm sash cutting his hand, Saugerties police said.

Patrolman Gordon Keeley and Jack Washburn apprehended Hill sometime later as he was returning to his home via a back yard route.

He was charged with malicious mischief, for destruction of private property, a charge he must face at a later date before a local police justice.

Hill admitted entering the home with the intention of taking a gun to sell, however, he denied taking any money, Justice Brinnier reported.

Saugerties police said Tuesday morning that Vozdik upon checking, reported that $25 in cash was missing from his home. Young Hill was on probation following release from Warwick institution, according to police.

Some time ago he escaped from Warwick and was later apprehended at the home of his parents by Cpl. Edward Shannon, of Kingston State Police BCI, and Saugerties Patrolman Donald Sullivan.

Adenauer Tells Hawaii Freedom Of Peace Needed

HONOLULU (AP)—"My people, just as yours, have one purpose in mind—and that is freedom in peace." West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told Hawaii Gov. William F. Quinn Tuesday.

"You symbolize the brotherly love we have to teach," Quinn replied. "You are truly one of the great thinkers in the free world today. We greet you with open arms and a very warm aloha."

The greeting for the 84-year-old chancellor and his party came when his German Luftwansa Super-Constellation landed at Hickam Air Force Base after a nine-hour flight from San Francisco.

On the last leg of a 12-day U.S. visit, Adenauer planned a rest here with no official functions on schedule. He will attend a stag luncheon at the governor's residence today.

PE Businessmen To Hold Dinner And Installation

Norman McCleod, president of the State of New York Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled to be the guest speaker at the annual installation dinner of the Port Even Businessmen's Association to be held Thursday night, March 31, at the Capri Restaurant, Port Ewen.

McCleod is also plant manager of the Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen. Dale Swartmiller, regional director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, will also be a guest and will speak briefly.

Zule Liese will be installed as new president; Vernon Frost, vice president; John Henry, treasurer; Ethel Howard, secretary; Donald Terpening, John Smith and George Costello, elected to serve a two year term, on the board of governors will take office also.

Reservations for the dinner which will be informal may still be made by calling Charles Montafia, dinner chairman.

The next regular meeting of the organization will be the last Thursday in April.

Rowe Still Serious

The condition of C. Edward Rowe, 58, of 343 Clifton Avenue, operator of aparies at that address, who was struck by a car on Foxhall Avenue Feb. 29, was reported as "still serious" at Kingston Hospital today. He had suffered a laceration of the forehead and other injuries.

3 Taxpayers Donate To Conscience Fund

ALBANY, March 22 — The state "conscience fund" was $50 richer today because of the generosity of three taxpayers.

From Manhattan, a taxpayer who had received a $10 refund on his 1959 state income tax returned $25 of it with a note saying, "I will meet the state half way. As a civic gesture I return this $5 back to the State of New York."

Another taxpayer sent $30 in currency, a $20 bill, a $5 bill and five $1 bills, in a plain white envelope whose postmark was illegible. It was addressed to New York State Income Tax, State Office Building, Albany, New York.

A $15 payment, also anonymous, was mailed from Manhattan on March 11.

Rosendale, Tillson News Guild Circles Hold Meetings

Circles of the Rosendale Reformed Church Guild for Christian Service met recently for monthly meetings.

Mrs. Robert Grupe, spiritual life director conducted the devotional portion of the Dorcas Circle meeting. Members will read chapter three in the Hymnbook of the Ages for the next meeting.

During the education portion of the program Mrs. Vincent Brancato led the discussion of mission stations in Kentucky and Christian Citizenship.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Brancato, Tillson Estates, Tuesday, April 19.

Priscilla Ciflet met at the home of Mrs. Robert Gaines, Rosendale, N. Y. George Mollenhauer was co-hostess.

Funeral services will be held Friday 2 p. m. at the Loucks Funeral Home Inc., 79 North Main Street, Ellenville. Burial will be in Faintine Cemetery, Ellenville. Officiating will be the Rev. Orson O. Rice of the Ellenville Methodist Church.

Peter J. Blair

The funeral of Peter J. Blair of Esopus was held Tuesday at 9:15 a. m. from Francis J. McCauley Funeral Home, 99 Henry Street and at the Church of the Sacred Heart in Esopus where at 10 a. m. a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Joseph Wall, CSSR. The Rev. Joseph Oppitz, CSSR, acted as organist and also sang the responses to the requiem. During the repose at the funeral home many called to pay their respects. Monday night Father Wall called and together with those assembled recited the Holy Rosary. Burial took place in New Paltz Rural Cemetery. Bearers were John Hart, Kenneth Blair, Peter Blair and Roger DuBois.

New Yorkers In Washington

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Special Service
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) says he will campaign vigorously for the national Republican ticket this year.

Just who the second man on that ticket will be is a lively question in both Republican and Democratic circles.

Could Be Keating

It could be Keating. Keating's name still is mentioned in speculation about a running mate for Vice President Richard M. Nixon, but the white-haired senator disclaims any ambitions for the post.

"I can sincerely and conscientiously say I have one ambition—to be the best senator New York has ever had," Keating said in an interview.

He declined to say whether he would accept the vice presidential nomination if it were offered to him. That, he said, would depend on the circumstances.

He added that he never would consider accepting the post unless he had the backing of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and the New York Republican organization.

Won't Move First

Keating also said he would not make the first move to secure this backing.

"It would be completely inappropriate for me to do anything unless it was initiated by them," Keating said.

Despite speculation on his possible candidacy, Keating said none of the Republican Party leaders, Nixon, or any of Nixon's aides, had approached him to sound out his feelings as a possible running mate for Nixon.

Last month, Keating firmly endorsed Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination.

His colleague, Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY), has yet to endorse the vice president for the nomination.

No Javits Endorsement

Before Rockefeller withdrew from the presidential sweepstakes last December, Javits had said he would support the New York governor if the latter decided to seek the nomination for president.

Since then Javits has said he has no inhibitions about supporting Nixon but has refrained from issuing an outright endorsement.

Keating, on the other hand, walked a tightrope between Rockefeller and Nixon until last month. He had been quoted as saying that if Rockefeller were not a candidate for the presidential nomination, he (Keating) would be available as a vice presidential candidate.

Keating says he never made that statement.

But he did say he had offered his services as a campaigner for Nixon to Republican national headquarters. Keating was the first speaker sent to Hawaii last year by GOP headquarters to campaign for Republican candidates in that state's elections.

Not Just for Ride

Keating said he thought the Republican vice presidential candidate should be "a man helpful to the ticket and not just somebody who is along for the ride."

The man who runs with Nixon should appeal to the independent voter and be able to attract some Democratic votes, Keating said. He added:

"He should be a forward-looking progressive Republican just as Mr. Nixon and Governor Rockefeller have demonstrated themselves to be."

Keating said he had several possible candidates in mind but declined to name them.

A young soldier in the First World War was relating his experience in connection with a retreat. The company was in a vulnerable position, and the enemy was closing in rapidly. The officer in charge gave orders to beat a hasty retreat, and as they did so the bullets flew thick and fast past them as they ran for their lives.

At the conclusion of his narration, one of his listeners asked him if he was scared. He replied, "No, I wasn't personally scared, but I passed several soldiers who were really scared."

A woman who had just reached her 29th birthday was talking to the pastor of her church about her desire to find a suitable mate. Minister—You mustn't be discouraged. In this world there's a man for every woman and a woman for every man. You can't improve on an arrangement like that.

To which the young lady replied:

I don't want to improve on it—I just want to get in on it.

Button, Button

Have you ever wondered why women's clothes button right over left while men's fasten left over right? The reason for this peculiarity in fashion dates back to the unsettled era of the seventeenth century when cavaliers needed to have their sword hand free, even when dressing, just in case they were interrupted by an assailant. Buttoning a coat left over right is easily done with the left hand, leaving the right hand free. In addition, a right-handed man can reach the hilt of a sword on his left side more readily if the left-over-right buttoning arrangement is used.

The left-handed cavalier was, of course, handicapped by this trend in fashion; but history does not record that any gentlemen of the seventeenth century who was left-handed had the courage to go against the incoming button style.

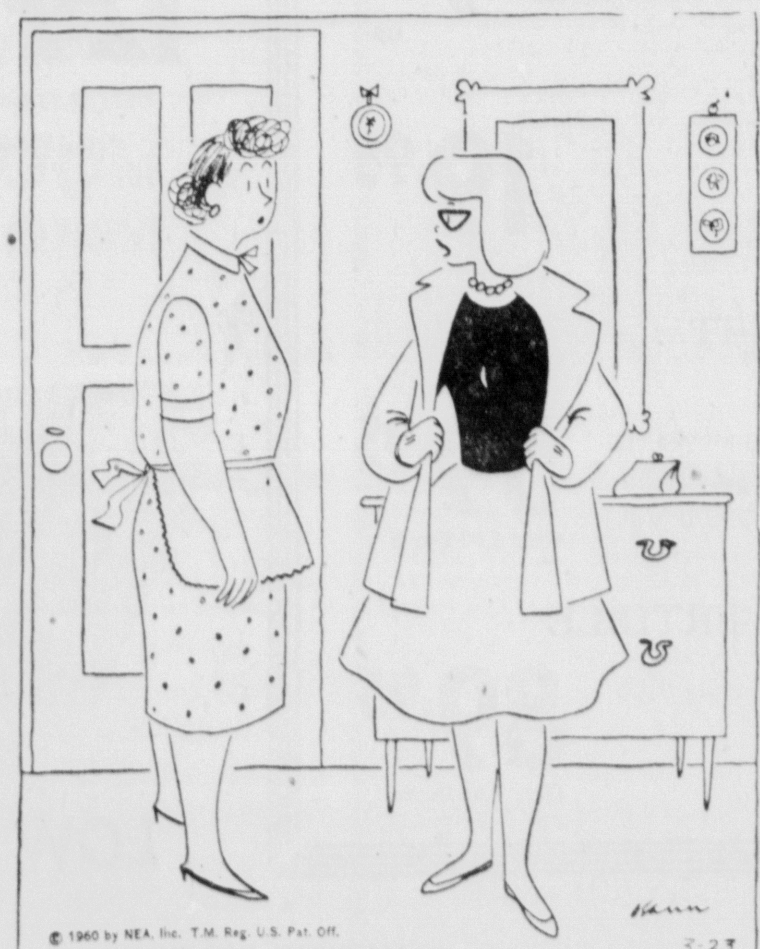

Meanwhile the ladies, having no sword handling worries, sensibly arranged their costume to be buttoned with the right hand.

Mother—So?

Why does a woman search all the shops for a bargain, then refuse to buy the hat she likes because the price seems too low?

Fred—So your new job makes you independent, eh?

Carey—Absolutely. I get here anytime I want before eight, and leave just when I please after five.

Presley Evades Teeners, But One Gets in Kiss

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Elvis Presley is here today to make a television broadcast with Frank Sinatra after eluding an estimated 5,000 shrieking teen-agers at Miami's railroad station. The rock'n' roll specialist was apologetic about not greeting the dotting multitude. "I'm not going to be here long enough," he said. A switch engine hauled Elvis' car 12 blocks back up the line Tuesday as the fans howled and pursued in vain. Even so, six girls were waiting and made a rush for Presley as he hustled to a limousine. One exchanged kisses with Elvis through a window pane of the automobile.

9 Youths Held After Slaying Of Peacemaker

ARLINGTON, Mass. (AP) — Nine teen-agers were held without bail on murder charges today — accused of killing a would-be peacemaker seeking to prevent a gang fight. The crime numbered a whole community. The death of Franklin K. Theall, 26, a tree surgeon, at the hands of a gang of young toughs who resented his efforts to stop their trouble-making spurred a community effort to cope with juvenile violence.

Theall, an Army veteran, was dragged away from a cup of coffee Monday night, beaten and stabbed in the street and left dying in a gutter.

Dist. Atty. John J. Droney, chief law officer in Middlesex, the state's most populous county, invited police chiefs of Arlington, Watertown and eight other major Boston suburbs to meet with him to organize a crackdown on young hoodlums.

Also invited were officials of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, which has authority to revoke driving licenses.

The slaying came after a three-day rumble involving groups from Arlington and neighboring Watertown. Theall got mixed up with the young toughs when he tried to take the role of peacemaker in a variety store invaded by the Watertown gang.

Nine Watertown youths were charged with murder in Cambridge District Court Tuesday. All are white. The nine are Richard M. Boyajian, 20; his brother Harold, 18;

Kenneth W. Murdock, 19; John J. Miskell, 19; Edward J. Butler, 20; John Khozian, 20; Richard Fannelli, 17; John M. McGrath Jr., 19, and Francis Hanrahan, 20.

McGrath pleaded innocent. The others offered no plea. They were held without bail for hearing April 5.

A 10th youth, also from Watertown, was held in $100,000 bail as a juvenile delinquent.

The catbird gets its name from the fact that, when it is alarmed, the bird has a cry much like the meowing of a cat.

Bus Is Now the Thing for Taking Guests to Theater

NEW YORK (AP) — The smart thing to do these days, if you want to get your dinner guests to the theater without a lot of unpleasant cab-hunting, is take a bus.

Not just an ordinary bus, of course, but a very posh upholstered bus, with a bar and a white-coated waiter pouring the champagne.

A transportation company which is a big provider of limousines for special occasions is now touting buses for rent.

Engraved announcements to the Social Register set described the bus service, at prices which range from $25 for a 28-passenger bus to $30 for a 41-passenger bus for 2½ hours. This includes tax.

Niagara Falls Development

Conflict of Ideologies Snarled Power Potential

This is the second in a two-part AP membership enterprise project unfolding the Niagara Falls power development. The giant undertaking not only will provide cheaper power for the industrial area, but it will bring new glamor to the home of the world-famed cataracts.

By CLIFF SPIELER
Niagara Falls Gazette

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—When a thundering mass of rock, dirt and rubble buried most of the Schoellkopf generating plant on June 7, 1956, it signaled an emergency on the Niagara Frontier.

Much of Flow Wasted

The water of the Niagara River continued to surge relentlessly over the world-famed cataracts, but much of the flow was wasted.

The Schoellkopf disaster left area industries in a precarious economic position. Many had come to the frontier for low-cost power. There no longer was low-cost power. What remained of hydroelectric facilities could hardly fill the requirements of power-hungry chemical and electrochemical plants.

For more than six years, the proposed redevelopment of the Niagara power potential was snarled in a conflict of ideologies. Two million kilowatts of hydro power that could be produced from available water was "going down the drain" while Canada proceeded to expand its facilities. Congress debated whether public or private agencies should undertake U. S. construction.

From the Schoellkopf wreckage came the compromise that handed the task to the State Power Authority. In return for surrendering all water rights, the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. was allocated a share of the output from the 720-million-dollar project.

Not Content With Power

The power authority was not content to develop power alone. Its chairman, Robert Moses, had a reputation for being "a parks man first." Thus, a coordinated program for redevelopment of the Niagara Falls area's parks, parkways and other facilities was launched simultaneously with power-generating construction.

When the first firm power flows from the Niagara station next February, it will mark a return of low-cost power to the area. Thirteen Frontier industries already have pledged expansions totaling 170 million dollars and calling for an estimated 3,100 permanent new jobs.

Rates for power are expected to be slightly above four mills a kilowatt hour, compared with seven mills many industries now are paying for energy imported from Canada.

Transmission links with St. Lawrence and Southern Tier power will enable the power authority and private utilities to increase the availability of electricity at all times. At Niagara, additional water is available for power purposes in winter, when the St. Lawrence River flow is low. The reverse is true in summer, when minimum diversion is permitted at Niagara to maintain the scenic beauty of the falls.

No Applications Yet

Up to 200,000 kilowatts of Niagara power may be made available to Pennsylvania and Ohio and to rural cooperatives, but there have been no applications to date. Niagara will have a capacity of 2,190,000 kilowatts, compared with the 2,080,000 of Aswan Dam in Egypt.

Tourists will reap the first benefits of the redevelopment program this summer. The first stretch of the 21-mile Niagara Parkway, which eventually will skirt the river from North Grand Island Bridge to Youngstown, will be opened near the falls.

Crews have been dumping fill excavated for installation of conduits above the cataracts, thus enlarging Goat Island, the land mass that separates the American and Horseshoe Falls. A new bridge will carry vehicular traffic over the rapids from the mainland to Goat Island. The island road network has been rebuilt. Parking space has been increased.

Others Participating

The most spectacular new facility will be an observation tower and elevator to the base of American Falls. The glass-enclosed structure, scheduled to open this year, will provide a new view of the falls.

Other agencies, principally the State Public Works Department, the State Council of Parks, and the Niagara Falls Bridge Commission, are participating in the coordinated program.

A new international bridge will be built at Lewiston. The State Thruway will be linked with the span by an expressway from Grand Island. On the Canadian side, the bridge approaches will connect with Queen Elizabeth Way, the Ontario super-highway that stretches north.

The railroads, which have run through the center of the downtown area for over a century, will be relocated, ending long delays on main thoroughfares.

Primarily the program calls for power production. But when the Niagara project is completed, it will have made possible a massive reconstruction that might not have been possible otherwise.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Miss Alice M. Scardefield, grand lecturer of the Order of the Eastern Star of the State of New York, phoned that she was in the midst of looking for the history of the Great Seal of New York.

It seems the Grand Chapter of the OES recently had a splendid silk banner made with the New York seal on it. I had some pictures of the seal but could not find any data otherwise. I felt that through the high school history department, Senate House Museum, and Kingston Library some information could be found.

At MJM Mrs. Viola Opdahl of the guidance department, asked Ruth Van Orden, librarian, and they found it in the New York Legislative Manual of 1957—pages 403-405. They said it could also be found in Shankle's State names and flags.

Meanwhile Miss Scardefield had found the information and brought her book down which gave me a chance to copy it. I mention the above sources in case someone is looking for information of that sort, as I do not have all the answers nor all the books I would like to have for such research.

Going back to the Great Seal of New York State, I see there were five of them The Great Seal of 1777 was "devised by a committee consisting of Messrs. Morris, Jay and Hobart, and was to be used for all the purposes for which the Crown Seal was used under the Colony. The second form was the Arms and Seal complete, devised by a committee in 1778, consisting of Gov. George Clinton and Chancellor Livingston."

The item further states, "The third seal was devised pursuant to the provisions of an act passed in 1798, authorizing the Comptroller Attorney - General and Surveyor-General to repair the Old Seal or cause a new one to be made. This commission decided to make a new one and recorded a description of it on Jan. 22, 1799. In 1809, the Legislature passed an act authorizing the Governor to prepare a new seal, which resulted in the fourth Great Seal, first used on Nov. 28 of that year."

Then came the "fifth and last form given to the Arms, on the Seals of the State which was in 1882, following a report by a commission consisting of Governor Alonzo B. Cornell, Secretary of State, Joseph B. Carr, and Comptroller, James W. Wadsworth. The Great Seal of the State of New York is in the custody of the Secretary of State."

The New York Red Book of 1957, on page 11 has a full page picture of the seal in black and white, painted by D. Cunningham Lithgow, a celebrated historical artist of Albany. In the New York Legislative Manual, another book also with red cover, but different in size contains the details. In Lithgow's painting one can see the landscape, sun behind the three mountains, highest peak in center. A ship and a sloop seem to meet on the river, and a grassy shore on this side. The American eagle proudly stands on top of a globe, on which can be seen the Atlantic Ocean. The lady figures are of Liberty and Justice, their streaming hair decorated with pearls. The motto on the scroll on which they stand reads, "Ex-celsior."

Miss Scardefield promised me a colored picture of it. I think students should be familiar with the Great Seal of their own state.

Women Campaign For Husbands in Lively Contests

By REELMAN MORIN

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The trim little woman with wavy grey hair gripped the microphone in both hands and cooed into it, "My candidate, my senator—my husband."

Everybody loved it, especially the ladies.

This was Mrs. Muriel Humphrey on the campaign trail in Wisconsin, working to put Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota in the White House.

Elsewhere in Wisconsin, a slim, dark-haired woman with a girlish expression, stood before another audience. She looked shy, confessed to a touch of jitters, and said in a low voice, "My husband couldn't be here today, and of course I can't really substitute for him—not really."

Speeches Popular

Everybody loved it, especially the men.

This was Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, pinch hitting for Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, who also wants to move to the White House.

Kennedy and Humphrey are vying for votes in the highly significant Wisconsin presidential primary, April 5.

Their wives are helping them with a "petticoat campaign." It's a queen-size success.

It brings a gleam of glamor to the smoke-filled room, the country social, the wayside tavern, and even the cow shed.

Both are attractive women. Mrs. Humphrey, 47, is petite, gray-haired, with an out-going personality. Mrs. Kennedy, 30, is taller. She has cascading dark hair, almond-shaped eyes, and a shy, girlish manner. Both are carefully, but not too obviously, chic.

Politics Eschewed

For the most part, they talk about hearth, home and husband, eschewing politics and campaign issues.

"I have a hard time comfortably telling people why they should vote for Humphrey," says Mrs. Humphrey. "But I feel his ideals should be working in government now."

In her first time out, Mrs. Kennedy put in a 13-hour day, which is just average for a campaigning candidate. She told her audiences Kennedy had to be in Washington for the debate on the civil rights and that she was merely trying to meet his commitments.

She shook about 2,500 hands and made eight stops, the last at 10 p.m. Along the way, she was taken to a dairy man's farm and dutifully walked out to the cow shed to admire his herd.

The "petticoat campaign" is wowing Wisconsin.

Confident of CR Bill

Johnson Is Primed for Fast Action Once House Votes

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas is thinking in terms of fast Senate action on a civil rights bill, once the House has completed its job, and in terms of a bill with probably five parts.

The tall Texan, leader of the Senate Democrats, appears confident the Senate will get down to business in a hurry after the House has acted and that Congress will produce a good but moderate piece of legislation.

May Finish This Week

The House, wrangling over a civil rights bill since March 10, should finish up this week. In the House, where debate is limited, this will be rather speedy, considering the opposition Southerners put up on a subject like this.

As for the Senate—it's an educated guess it will get through with its own bill April 2, a week from Saturday, after debating civil rights since Feb. 15. There again the Southerners slowed action to a crawl.

The Senate bill may well be different from the House version. But there can be no new civil rights law until both Houses agree on a single bill. So the battle by no means will be over when the Senate finishes in April.

The Senate bill may be a mixture of the Senate's own ideas, some from the proposals of the Eisenhower administration, and some from the House bill.

Possibilities of Bill

As Johnson sees it the bill as passed by the Senate may:

1. Have a voting rights section. This means protection for Negro voting rights in the South through a referee system or something similar to it. The Senate hasn't acted on this one yet. The House approved Tuesday the plan for court-appointed federal agents, called referees, to oversee registration, voting and vote-counting in areas where systematic discrimination against Negroes is found.

2. Provide criminal penalties for interstate transportation of any explosive intended for bombing public or private buildings, not just integrated schools. The Senate already has approved this section. The House tackles it today.

Other Steps

3. Make it a federal offense to interfere with court orders. The Senate previously knocked down this idea, but may reinstate it in some form. What form isn't clear yet.

4. Order voting records preserved.

5. Provide education for servicemen's children in areas where schools are closed to avoid integration.

How could Johnson hope to finish up a bill by April 2 if the Senate, where the Southerners have filibustered and blocked, has hardly moved after more than a month of talking?

Quite an Operator

Johnson is quite an operator in getting Senate action when he wants it. He is the Capitol Hill apostle of the "let's reason together" approach to warring groups of senators.

Furthermore, if Johnson and others in the Senate finally tell the Southerners to pipe down and let the work go on, the Southerners can hardly claim they haven't had a chance to speak their piece.

Shutting them up should be easy once the rest of the Senate really wants to. The Southern opposition totals only a solid 18 out of a total membership of 100.

Jail Ex-Deputy In Beating of Sons

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—A former Cayuga County deputy sheriff was under indeterminate prison sentence today for beating his two young sons.

County Judge Gerald S. Hewitt sentenced Wayne Hawker, 27, of Auburn, Tuesday to a term in Elmira Reformatory not to exceed five years.

Hawker pleaded guilty March 9 to a charge of second-degree assault in the beating of his sons, Bruce, 3, and Douglas, 1, during a family argument in their home last December.

Adoption of Boy Just Charity Act Corsall Reveals

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Oswego Mayor Vincent A. Corsall says he tried to adopt a 20-year-old youth in 1952 only as "an act of charity" and that it was the young man's suggestion.

Corsall, now 40, was questioned about the adoption plan during trial of his $360,000 suit against New York City on charges of wrongful and malicious arrest.

The former mayor, a teacher at Oswego High School, was arrested and tried in October 1958 on a charge of committing a homosexual act in a Manhattan subway station.

He was found innocent by a magistrate, and was restored to his teaching job. Later he lost a bid for reelection as mayor.

About the time of the trial, Corsall's foster son, Gerald Corsall, 26, who had changed his name from Clarence Kantz, was killed in a scuffle at Oswego, apparently resulting from a misunderstanding.

Young Corsall was escorting a girl friend home from a dance when she slipped getting into a car, and screamed.

A fight followed because passers thought young Corsall was mistreating the girl. A grand jury voted no indictment.

Under cross-examination Tuesday, Corsall said he made plans to adopt the Kantz youth in 1952 but never made a formal application on advice of his attorney and others.

Mamie Wins Divorce From Ray Anthony

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress Mamie Van Doren won a divorce Tuesday from bandleader Ray Anthony.

"He would stay away for months without telling me where he was. Our marriage became impossible," she testified.

Anthony was ordered to pay $1 token alimony plus $300 a month for the couple's son, Perry, 4. Miss Van Doren, 26, and Anthony, 39, married Aug. 28, 1955, and separated June 13, 1958.

Jap Student Is Given 3 Years In Death of Prof

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese student was sentenced to three years in prison today for the fatal beating of an American professor during a drunken rage.

Seisui Mori, 20, was convicted of "inflicting bodily injury resulting in death" last Nov. 26 on Dr. Charles Elliot Perry, 51, of Canton, N. Y., who taught English and oriental history at Tokyo's Rikkyo University.

Twelve years in prison is the maximum punishment on the charge, the Japanese equivalent of manslaughter. The prosecution asked for a 5-year sentence.

There was no immediate indication whether Mori would appeal. According to testimony at the trial, Mori and a companion were passing Perry's house after drinking in local bars. One hurled a rock that broke a window. When Perry came out and admonished them, Mori attacked the American, beating him on the head and body with his fists.

Before he died of a cerebral hemorrhage, Perry asked leniency for Mori.

Mori attended the Daito Culture University, a traditional rival of the institution at which Perry taught.

May Complete Survey During Fiscal Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soil Conservation Service expects to complete its part of a survey of the Delaware River Watershed in the current fiscal year, D. A. Williamson, administrator, has testified.

In testimony before a House appropriations subcommittee made public Tuesday, the service said it was estimating the needs for smaller water storage facilities to supplement the major river improvements under investigation by Army engineers.

The service, under questioning by Rep. Alfred E. Santangelo (D-N.Y.), said the Army engineers spent $1,771,142 on the survey between 1956 and 1960.

The Agriculture Department provided $15,156 in 1957-58 and was reimbursed by the engineers for $166,645 in 1957-60.

Boy Born Without Bile Ducts Lives

By GEORGE ESPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five-year-old Kenny Barnes, who was born without bile ducts, lies in a hospital today in critical condition.

Perhaps the faith and love of his mother and father have carried Kenny this far.

Doctors say children born without bile ducts ordinarily live only six months to a year.

"We'll never get the answer," Mrs. Jean Barnes, 27, of Palmyra, N.J., his mother, said today. "It's a mystery why he's lived so long. But love can do so much for a sick person that they'll fight to live. What can I do now but wait and pray and hope."

Kenny has been in and out of hospitals since he was born. Only two weeks ago he had been released from Einstein Medical Center and sent home again to gain strength for an operation.

But his condition deteriorated and he was sent back to the hospital, Tuesday. He is in a near coma. Hospital sources said a coma could be fatal.

State Is Working To Purchase Iona Island From U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—New York congressmen were working today toward possible state purchase of a federally owned Hudson River island for a park.

The congressmen voted Tuesday night to arrange a meeting between state officials and the General Services Administration to discuss the transfer of Iona Island near Bear Mountain.

Rep. Emmanuel Celler (R-N.Y.) said the island had an appraised value of about six million dollars. He expressed hope the state could buy the island for three million dollars, plus $750,000 for moving material now stored there.

"He is very, very ill," medical officials reported today. "We're trying to keep him alive. Love of parents and the anatomy of the liver have kept him going."

"He is as thin as a spider and his mental and physical condition have deteriorated. We don't know all the facts or the answers except that in some cases the liver retains its ability to keep some of its functions. It's very difficult to get information because these cases are so rare, but we're making some progress."

Mrs. Barnes said the boy weighs 38 pounds. She said he won't eat as he should.

Mrs. Barnes and her husband, a barber, have two other children.

Saratoga Springs, Albany Banks May Merge, Is Report

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Saratoga National Bank of Saratoga Springs would become the 21st office of the State Bank of Albany, under a merger approved by stockholders of both institutions.

The shareholders voted Tuesday to approve the merger.

Hollis E. Harrington, president of the Albany bank, and Michael E. Sweeney, president of the Saratoga bank, said Saratoga stockholders would receive nine shares of State Bank stock for each share of Saratoga National.

The merger needs approval of regulatory authorities.

Republican Women Hear About History Of Area at Meeting

Harry Rigby was the guest speaker for the Ulster County Women's Republican Club meeting on Thursday, March 17.

Mr. Rigby based his talk on the Irish and the important hand they played in the building of the Hudson Valley and Ulster County and in the building of the railroads and canals. One of the interesting facts he revealed was that Thomas Chambers, known as Lord of Foxhall Manor, was also an Irishman. Foxhall Manor was located where St. John's Episcopal Church stands at Albany Avenue, and extended along Manor Avenue embracing the entire area.

Mr. Rigby's talk was given in observance of St. Patrick's Day. Mrs. Lee Rogman also spoke about an upcoming conference to be held in Washington. Five delegates will attend. Their names will be announced. Refreshments were served.

New Officers, Agenda Will be Voted Upon At League Meeting

Members of the Provisional League of Women Voters will meet Wednesday, March 30, to consider ideas for a local current agenda for next year; hear a proposed slate of officers and budget; and find out about recent developments in the court reorganization program.

The group meets at 8:30 p. m. in the Board of Supervisors room, Ulster County Court House, 285 Wall Street.

Mrs. Robert S. MacDonald, a member of the judicial resource committee, will report on the current status of the court question, including last-minute developments in the final days of the Albany legislative session.

A slate of officers for next year will be proposed by Mrs. Melvin Mones, nominating committee chairman. Nominations may also be made from the floor, provided permission of the nominee has been obtained. Officers and terms to be filled included president (one year); first vice president (one year); second vice president (two years); secretary (one year); treasurer (two years); and six elected directors: three for two-year terms and three for one year. Also named will be chairman of next year's nominating committee and two elected members of the committee.

The board may then appoint up to six directors and two other members of the nominating committee. The slate will be voted upon at the group's June 13 meeting.

The budget under which the organization will function will be presented. Mrs. Kirtland F. Snyder has served as budget chairman for the past year. A discussion of possible local study items for next year will be held. Anyone who has suggestions is asked to raise them at that time. The board will then formulate a proposed program and present it for a vote at the June meeting.

The executive committee of the local group met Wednesday evening to draft the Provisional League's application for regular status to the state and national organizations.

Hibernians Attend Breakfast on Sunday

Hadassah Members Hear Timely Report on Israel Given at Meeting Held Here Monday

A view of contemporary life in Israel was provided Monday night for members of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah.

Mrs. Robert E. Davis, a member of the group, spoke on her recent trip to Israel at a meeting at Temple Emanuel. Mr. Davis showed films to augment the talk.

The speaker described Hadassah installations, including the Brandeis School, where youngsters are trained to take their place in Israel's economy; a clinic where Yemenite families are cared for; and the new Hadassah-Hebrew University Hospital now under construction outside Jerusalem. The building will replace the Mount Scopus installation, now beyond Arab lines.

Also visited were Elath, at the country's southern tip, where a new city is being built out of desert; the Gaza Strip and Beersheba. Mrs. Davis commented on the immediacy of danger in certain areas, touched by Jordan's borders, and the fierce independence of the Israeli native-born "sabaras," particularly in contrast to the oppressed Jewry of their parents' generation.

Mrs. Jay Melton presided over a business meeting preceding the program. Reports were given by Mrs. Saul Schechter, co-chairman of the Jewish National Fund drive nearing completion; Mrs. Robert Nadler of the donor committee; Mrs. Alvin Motzkin, advertising page co-chairman; Mrs. Sidney Treinkman, eye bank day chairman; and Mrs. Herbert Gertner, special benefit chairman. The spring projects benefit Hadassah Medical Organization work in Israel.

The "New and Nearly New" Shop, sponsored twice a year for the benefit of vocational education projects, will be opened April 25 to 29. Mrs. Manuel Lipton is chairman.

Mrs. Edward Weissman, education chairman, will initiate a class in Yiddish at 1 p. m., Thursday, March 24, at her home, 50 Northfield Street. Anyone interested in enrolling should contact her.

Mrs. Arthur London was program chairman for the meeting, with Mrs. Morris Berman in charge of refreshments.

THREE GO TO THE MOVIES

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening my fiancé and I and a cousin of mine, who was visiting with us, went to the movies. When we arrived, there were no seats available so we waited at the back of the theater. After about twenty minutes the usher came over and said that there were three seats available—a double and a single seat two rows away. We decided to take them rather than stand. My fiancé and I took the double seat and my cousin sat in the single seat. I think she thought us very rude in letting her sit alone and that my fiancé should have taken the single seat. Will you please tell me if we were discourteous?

Answer: If you have very recently become engaged and your cousin is someone you see often, your sitting with your fiancé was understandable and not too rude, but otherwise you should not have let her sit alone.

Double Checking a Restaurant Bill

Dear Mrs. Post: Whenever my boy friend and I dine out and the bill is presented to him at the end of dinner, he always double checks the bill to see that he is not being overcharged. Not only is this very embarrassing to me, but I think it is very bad manners on his part and is a reflection on the waiter's honesty. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: There's nothing wrong in quickly checking the bill to see that it is correct. If he fusses over it and searches for flaws, it would be very bad manners.

The Left Third Finger

Dear Mrs. Post: I would very much like to know the origin of wearing the wedding ring on the third finger of the left hand. Can you tell me?

Answer: The wedding ring is worn on the left hand to denote a wife's subjection to her husband, and on the third finger because from it a vein is sentimentally supposed to go direct to the heart.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-27, entitled, "Afternoon Tea," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Bard Alumnus Is Recipient of Wilson National Fellowship

Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y.—Clark G. Rodewald, a graduate of the Bard College class of 1959, has recently been awarded a Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship. Mr. Rodewald is one of 1,259 winners for 1960 selected from 8,800 applicants and representing 861 institutions, it was made known by Hugh Taylor, president of the Foundation. The Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Program was established in 1945 to recruit promising students for the college teaching profession and support them during their first year of graduate study. In 1957, the Program received a $24,500,000 grant from the Ford Foundation to increase the scope of its operations and to intensify its search for college teachers.

As an undergraduate at Bard, majoring in literature, Mr. Rodewald was selected by the faculty as one of two John Bard Scholars for 1958 for outstanding academic achievement, and in 1959 he was chosen for the Wilton Moore Lockwood Prize which is given for the most distinguished writing in course. During the past winter, Mr. Rodewald has been studying part-time at Columbia University and in the Fall plans to do graduate study in English literature at Johns Hopkins University. He and his wife, Norma Cross Rodewald, also a former Bard College student, and their young son are now living in Clinton Corners, New York.

Mrs. Halverson Is Elected President Of Delta Gamma Here

Mid-Hudson Delta Gamma Alumnae Association held its annual Founder's Day luncheon at Judie's Restaurant in Kingston on Sunday, March 20. The annual meeting followed at the home of Mrs. John Larkin. The newly-elected officers were installed. They are president, Mrs. Harry Halverson, of Kingston; vice president, Mrs. Harold Stengel of Woodburne; secretary, Mrs. Robert Bartlett, Mt. Marion; treasurer, Mrs. Ashton Hart, High Falls.

Mrs. Virginia Boice from the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness was the speaker. She stressed the fact that seven out of 10 cases of blindness could have been prevented. She noted the vast amount of help given to the visually handicapped by Delta Gammas in the nation.

The next meeting in May will be held in Ellenville. Any Delta Gammas in this area are asked to contact one of the above mentioned alumnae.

Milton Salesman Honored by Firm

Thomas L. Gavin, Milton, was Shell Oil Company's guest of honor last night at a dinner at Pine Tree Inn, Middlehope. Yesterday Gavin completed a quarter century of service with the oil firm.

To mark the occasion, Harry Wearne, Shell's Albany Division Operations Manager, presented a gold watch and diamond service pin to Gavin on behalf of the company.

Following the dinner, Anderson and Kinsley conducted a meeting dedicated to plant and highway safety.

Gavin, himself a driver-salesman who operates petroleum transport trucks, has a 20-year safe driving record covering nearly half a million miles.

A native of Milton, he attended Highland High School. He is married to the former Erna Williams of Peekskill and is the father of two children, Thomas 16, and Barbara, 12. The family resides on Brewster Avenue, Milton.

Four sons and one grandson of Johann Sebastian Bach became famous as musicians in their own right.

Hudson Valley Philharmonic Schedules Concert for Sunday; Original Work Listed

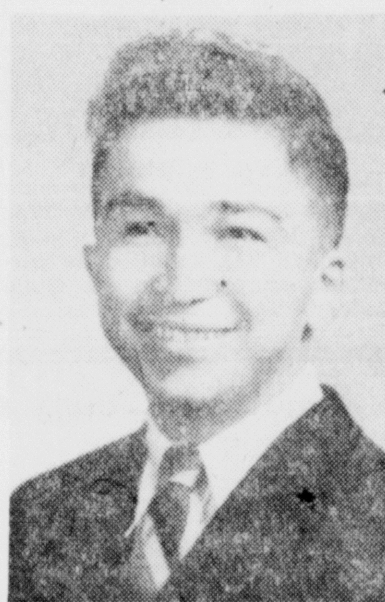

The premiere of "Anecdote for Orchestra" by David Simon will be featured in Poughkeepsie Hudson Valley Philharmonic under the direction of Claude Monteux during the fourth concert of the current season Sunday.

The new work, dedicated to the orchestra, was commissioned as part of a program initiated by Mr. Monteux after he took over as director of the Philharmonic last July to encourage original compositions by young composers.

Mr. Simon, 35, was the winner of the first Harold Bauer Award by the Manhattan School of Music for his "Symphony in One Movement." He arranged and orchestrated "Offenbach in the Underworld" to the choreography of Antony Tudor for the Ballet Theatre and has written orchestral and chamber music as well as several film scores.

Seymour Fink, winner of the Philharmonic Society's 1959 auditions, will be the evening's featured soloist in Liszt's "Piano Concerto No. 1 in E Flat." The program will also include Mozart's "Symphony No. 38," Faure's "Melisande" from Pelléas et Melisande and "Nocturne for Strings" from Shylock; and Weber's Overture to Euryanthe.

Lance Reventlow, Jill St. John Are To Wed Thursday

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marriage in the best Hollywood tradition—merging wealth and beauty—begins unpretentiously Thursday for dime store heir Lance Reventlow and actress Jill St. John.

Reventlow, 24, a playboy with a flair for auto racing, reputedly is heir to more than 20 million dollars. This will be his first marriage.

Miss St. John, 19, a red-haired starlet who has been in the entertainment business since the age of 6, was married at 15 to a linen supply company executive and divorced at 18. Her press agents say she has an IQ of 162 (genius rating).

The young couple say they will be wed in a civil ceremony but won't say where. They got a marriage license at Riverside Tuesday.

The small group attending the wedding will include Reventlow's mother, heiress Barbara Hutton, and Jill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oppenheim of Beverly Hills.

Jill said her wedding ring will be a plain platinum band.

"Anything more elaborate wouldn't look good because of the size of my diamond engagement ring," she said. "I don't know how many carats it is—I never asked Lance, but it looks big. It goes almost from knuckle to knuckle."

Indian Powwow Is Heap Big Success at Woodstock School

The first of a novel series of activities for the children of the Woodstock elementary school, an "Indian Powwow" party, was a tremendous success last Saturday at the school. Sponsored by the Woodstock P-T-A, under the direction of the Children's Activities Committee, the affair, in full authentic costume and spirit, was enjoyed by 150 children of the first, second and third grades.

The new program of activities for this year was planned by the committee as a change from dances held in previous years, the idea being that each should be an activity directed specifically to each grade level.

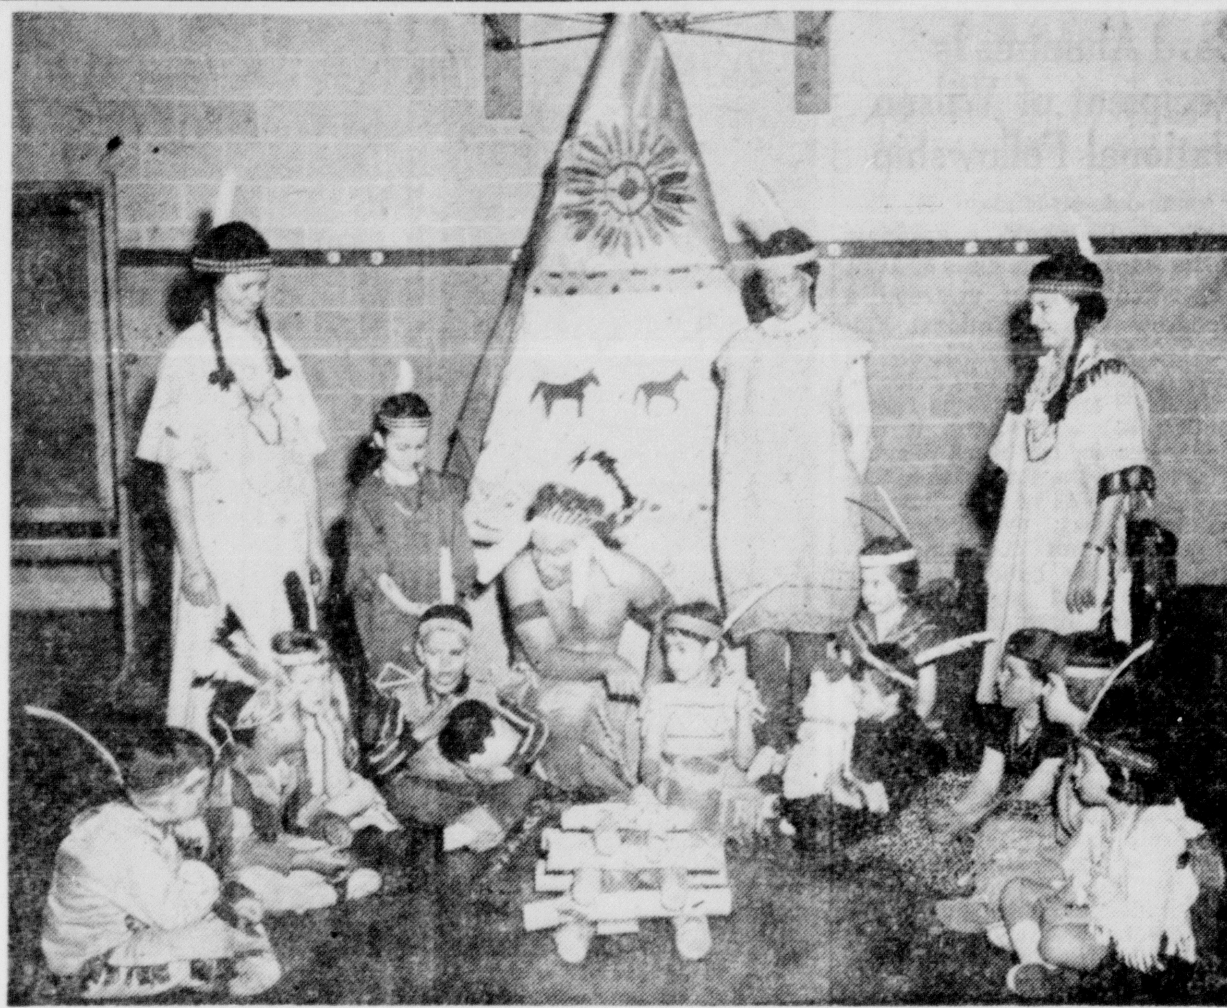

The Indian Powwow, conceived and arranged by Henry F. Miller, was planned not only as a day of fun but as a meaningful lesson in local Indian lore which the children would absorb through participation.

The children, all in Indian costume, were divided into two groups wearing either green or yellow feathers in their headbands. These feathers signified the two Indian tribes of this region, the Algonquians and the Iroquois. Hank Miller, as Indian Chief presiding over the affair, told the children the story of the tribes they represented. The original inhabitants of this area were the Algonquians (Delawares), a branch of whom were the Esopus (or River) Indians, who roamed in the local Woodstock-Kingston-Saugerties woods. Their neighbors to the north in the Adirondacks were the Iroquois, who consisted of a combination of what were known as the "5 Great Nations"—the Cayugas, the Onondagas, the Oneidas, the Mohawks and the Mohicans.

The children played many Indian-type games such as tug-of-war, Indian foot and hand wrestling, and many others. Chief Hank, who is a teacher and owner-director of Camp Camelot Day Camp in Woodstock, was assisted by "squaws" (and fellow members of the Children's Activities Committee) Mrs. Robert Hastie, chairman; Mrs. Allen Albrecht, Mrs. Augustine Baptiste and Mrs. Jack Gibson.

A realistic tepee was made and painted by Drew Albrecht and Susan and Robin Miller. The committee extends thanks to the Woodstock Cub Scout Pack for the excellent simulated campfire they created for the event.

Frank J. Reilly Will Give Art-Film Lecture March 26

Frank J. Reilly, internationally noted artist, teacher and lecturer, for 25 years associated with the Art Students League, will give a lecture on art with illustrating films, in the next program of the Woodstock Festival Winter Series, Saturday, March 26, at 8:30 p. m. in the Guild Gallery.

Reilly, who has a home in Woodstock, is an authority on teaching methods and an originator of many theories on art. He will show and talk on a series of color films titled "Artists at Work"—each giving the background of a famous artist and showing how he paints a picture from start to finish.

Gifted in Fine Arts and Illustration, Reilly, New York born, studied with George Bridgman, Frank Vincent DuMond and Dean Cornwell. His paintings appear in all national magazines, on the covers of magazines and art exhibitions. His murals are in New York City, Tennessee, in private homes, and he has recently executed a mural in mosaic (62 by 22 feet) for the Bronx High School of Science.

Excellent Background
Reilly is a member of the National Academy of Design, the Art Students League of New York, a vice president of the National Society of Mural Painters, Society of Illustrators, Salamagundi, Artists and Writers, the Artists Fellowship, the American Artists Professional League, and the Century Association.

One of the most popular and productive of the instructors at the Art Students League, many of his students have gone on to great success in the field of Fine Arts, both traditional and modern, as well as in Illustration, Advertising and Cartooning.

This event, incidentally, will mark the first use of the new large, 8-foot wide, roll-up type screen the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen has installed as permanent equipment in the Guild Gallery.

Onteora Board Defers Action on Health Policies

Onteora Board of Education has tabled for further study a proposal which would make available health insurance to teachers and employees of the Onteora Central Schools District.

An informal poll of the district personnel revealed 165 in favor, four undecided and seven against. If approved by the Board, the cost would be approximately $6,371 annually to the district. The teachers would pay $10,205.00 as their share.

Teachers could select alternate plans and pay the difference, but the charge to the district would remain the same.

Trustee Arthur Knight said he felt there was no question about the advantages of the plan and said it was relatively inexpensive considering the coverage the teachers and employees would receive. Trustee Albert Fox voiced strong opposition to the proposal, claiming that additional liability insurance for the school children was more important than the $6000 item for health insurance. He cited specific instances where, he said, the school would have faced lawsuits in the past when children were injured on school property.

Trustee Anne Larys said she thought both plans—for the additional liability for children and the health insurance—were important and deserved serious consideration of the board.

After lengthy discussion, Trustee Knight said it might be well to table the proposal until the board's insurance committee could discuss the voluminous data which arrived late. The motion to table followed.

Lynne Baggett, Ex-Starlet, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Death climaxed a long series of personal misfortunes Tuesday for actress Lynne Baggett.

The 32-year-old blonde was found dead in her bed, a quantity of pills nearby.

Police attributed her death to an overdose of medication pending an autopsy.

Her death ended a career once considered promising but marred by a broken marriage, court battles, personal tragedy and illness.

She came to Hollywood as a 19-year-old starlet from Wichita Falls, Tex. She never became a star although she appeared in supporting roles in many films.

Democratic Club Discusses Town Dump Proposals

NEW PALTZ—At the recent meeting of the Democratic Club the discussion was pertaining to the proposed town dump. The club feels that the purchase price would be far too high and that the legality of the right-of-way to this property is questionable.

The club has a newly installed policy of year-round activity in issues pertaining to the betterment of the community, and feels that this issue should be ironed out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Membership and finance reports showed a steady increase in paid club membership. Plans were discussed for continuing the newly instituted membership drive by districts. The next membership drive will be in district three, John Schreiber, committeeman.

The Club Chairman, John Shand, suggested they start planning now for the regular spring dinner. The committee to arrange for the event will be Robin Johnston, chairman; Mrs. Harriet Kerr, Michael Landes, John Shand and Arthur Jorgenson.

Refreshments were served at the close of the regular meeting, after which Mrs. Kerr reported on the recent conference she attended in Albany.

SaVino, Armstead Kelly Set To Play in All-Star Contest

Mickey SaVino, Leo Armstead and John Kelly, three of the top scholastic cagers in the area, will play in the high school All-Star game Saturday night at the Municipal Auditorium. The contest, to be staged for the benefit of the Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, will feature top stars from the DUSO and DCSL opposing each other.

Two of the players—SaVino and Armstead—were named "Most Valuable" in their respective leagues. SaVino led Arlington to the DCSL championship and is known as one of the best shooters in the area. The 5-7 dynamo averaged more than 26 points a game in league competition and tallied a total of 498 during the year for Arlington. The senior star scored 40 against Roosevelt and was above 30 on numerous other occasions. He was never held to less than 20 points during the year in circuit competition.

GOING FAR — A consistent winner on the indoor track circuit has been Al Lawrence, a distance runner for Houston who, along the way, set a new three-mile world indoor mark.

Monticello Team
Armstead was the leader of a good Monticello squad which finished a close third in the DUSO race. He's a good shooter and an excellent all-around performer. He finished second to Joe Uhl in the scoring race, averaging 21.6 in his 16 starts. His high was 42 against Port Jervis.

Kelly, the DUSO League's top defensive performer, will probably get the assignment of trying to stop SaVino. Long John was the backcourt ace for Kingston and he still found time in between his defensive assignments to score 193 points in circuit play for an average of 12.1 a start. During the season he put the stops on such outstanding scorers as Bob Bosch, Armstead, Gus Lander of Newburgh and Tom Slover of Middletown.

The addition of SaVino, Armstead and Kelly promises to make this contest one of the best ever played here.

Joining SaVino to date on the All-DCSL squad are Barry and Bob Wolven of Saugerties. Others have also made known their intentions of being here and their names will be made known tomorrow.

In addition to Armstead and Kelly, the DUSO lineup will have Steve Schumer of Monticello and Bob Wood of Ellenville plus others to be announced tomorrow.

Tickets for the contest may be purchased at Tom Maine's Sporting Good Store or at the door the night of the game.

Yanks, Braves Flag Favorites

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves are favored by Las Vegas oddsmakers to wind up in the World Series this year. The world champion Los Angeles Dodgers rate no better than third in the National League. And the Chicago White Sox, American League champions, are a second choice.

Wiltwyck Country Club has announced that it will receive bids on the proposed new swimming pool on March 30.

The bids will be received by the engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios, who designed the pool. The picture above is artist Harry Hohnhorst's conception of the new pool.

The Wiltwyck swimming pool will be a reinforced concrete structure 42 feet by 82 feet, 1 inch, with a 15 by 30 wading pool. The depth in the main pool will vary from 3 1/2 feet to 10 feet in the center of the hopper shaped diving end.

The pool will have one meter and three meter diving boards and will be trimmed with a buff colored cast stone coping and a row of blue tile which will carry below water level. The main pool will have a capacity of 160,000 gallons of water which will be kept crystal clear by four large 72-inch diameter sand filters capable of treating the entire 160,000 gallons in an 8-hour period. Chlorine and alum will be added automatically and the pool will have a fine recirculating, vacuum system and automatic skimmers.

8,600 Square Feet
The pool will be surrounded by a concrete area that will cover 8,600 square feet and the entire area will be set off by a six-foot high cyclone fence. The wading pool will be separated from the main pool by a four-foot high cyclone fence.

The 33 ft. x 66 ft. bathhouse will be concrete block construction with louvered clearstory with translucent fiberglass roof. The bathhouse will also contain tile showers and sanitary facilities and will include a storage room and snack bar.

Facilities for night bathing will be provided for with flood lighting from the bathhouse and from 20-foot poles on the opposite side of the pool.

The entire undertaking was designed and submitted for bids by Brinnier and Larios, professional engineers.

Hockey Teams Start Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings open the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series tonight in Toronto. National Hockey League champion Montreal and Chicago begin their series Thursday night in Montreal.

Toronto and Detroit will play another game in Toronto Saturday night before shifting to the Motor City for the next two games. If further games are necessary the teams will alternate sites.

The winners of the semifinal series play a best-of-seven for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy. Montreal has won the last four years.

Gay Dancer Winner Of Roosevelt Race

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Gay Dancer, driven by George Phalen, won Tuesday's featured Garden City race before 10,016 at Roosevelt Raceway. The time for the mile was 2:10.

The 7-year-old son of Gay Song returned $3.70. Chief Pick was second and First Discovery third. Driver Joe Bonacorsa and Calgary Byrd, a 6-year-old bay horse, escaped injury in a spill during the feature Garden City pace.

Bonacorsa had steered Calgary Byrd into the lead when the horse unexpectedly hit the rail, throwing the driver from the sulky.

Paret, Thompson to Collide In Elimination Bout Friday

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny (Kid) Paret can't read or write in either Spanish or English but it apparently hasn't hurt his boxing career. Being an illiterate even may have been an asset for the Cuban welterweight contender.

Since he can't read the newspapers the Kid doesn't know too much about the reputations for the leading fighters. Furthermore he couldn't care less.

On Friday night the muscular, 23-year-old from Santa Clara, Cuba, faces Argentina's Federico Thompson in a 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden. The winner will get a title fight with welterweight champion Don Jordan at Las Vegas, May 27.

Pascual Hurls Well For Nats

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Camilo Pascual, a strong-armed 26-year-old Cuban with a fond attachment for greenbacks, is aiming his blazing fast ball right at the purse strings held by Washington President Calvin Griffith.

Pitching for the Senators, who have languished in the American League cellar for three consecutive years, Pascual compiled a neat 17-10 record during the 1959 campaign and then had to battle Griffith for a hefty raise.

Now Pascual is intent on breaking the bank by proving his first winning year in six major league seasons, a 2.64 earned run average and 185 strikeouts were no one-shot deal.

Displays Talents
The 5-foot-11 right-hander again displayed his talents for Griffith Tuesday, pitching four innings of shutout relief, striking out eight and allowing only a harmless single by Jackie Brandt as the Senators nipped Baltimore's Orioles 2-1.

With Washington's fearsome foursome — Harmon Killebrew, Jim Lemon, Roy Sievers, Bob Allison—still looking for their first exhibition home run, it took a run, scoring single by light hitting Lenny Green in the seventh inning to win it.

In other games, St. Louis trounced Milwaukee 8-1, Kansas City beat Detroit 5-1, Los Angeles edged New York 6-5, Pittsburgh nipped Chicago's White Sox 9-8, Cincinnati topped Philadelphia 7-6, Boston defeated Cleveland 9-5 and San Francisco downed Chicago's Cubs 9-8 in 12 innings.

Union Selects Maras as Coach

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP)—Joseph T. Maras, Columbia University line coach, was named head football coach for Union College today.

Maras replaces Keith Doyle whose teams have lost all their games since he arrived in 1958. Doyle had coached at the University of Nebraska and Wesleyan University.

Maras, Duquesne University athlete in the 1930s and later center with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League, coached at Harvard, Amherst and the now-defunct Champlain College at Plattsburgh before going to Columbia in 1957. He is a native of Hibbing, Minn.

Rigney Says Giants Front Line Club Good

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—"I think our front line club is as good as any," declares Manager Bill Rigney of the San Francisco Giants, a man on the baseball spot for 1960.

He points out two factors for improvement over 1959 when the club led the National League most of the way only to finish third.

First, the acquisition of second baseman Don Blasingame, a proven leadoff man, and two pitchers, Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes.

Second, the added year's experience for the younger Giants.

After the 1959 skid, Rigney was rehired but this time received only a one-year contract where he had a pair of two-year pacts previously.

Good Batting Power
Three Willies—Mays, McCovey and Kirkland—plus Orlando Cepeda provide batting power and with the addition of O'Dell and Loes, the iron-man pitching stints of last season won't be needed.

Right now Rigney hopes he can

Am-Ital. Five Plays Tonight In Cage Tourney

Second place finisher in the City Rec Basketball League, the American-Italian Restaurant five will play the Main Grill of Poughkeepsie in a first round game of the 17th annual Hudson Valley Basketball tournament tonight at the Bridge City YMCA court.

The locals will play at 7:15 p. m.

Seeing action for the American-Italian team will be Marty Kaye, Ward Dunham, Skip Brodhead, Andy Juhl, Dick Terlingen, Bob Bondar, Champ Holstein, Tony Grimaldi and Joe Klonowski.

Tonight's second game will feature the powerful Peekskill Jets and Schatzel-Federal of Poughkeepsie. The winners of these contests will collide next Wednesday in a quarter-final attraction.

Yankees, A's May Deal Again

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Are the Kansas City Athletics and the New York Yankees on the verge of another player trade?

Probably, says baseball writer Joe McGuff of the Kansas City Star.

McGuff reported Tuesday that Manager Bob Elliott of the A's hinted a trade. It would be the 16th deal between the teams since 1955.

Asked by newsmen if any deals were being considered, Elliott replied: "The Yankees have an infielder I wouldn't mind having. And he's not playing regularly either."

This wasn't much of a clue to the player's identity since the closest thing to a regular in Yankee Manager Casey Stengel's operation is Stengel himself.

However, the Yanks have three men who more or less match Elliott's description — Clotis Boyer, Andy Carey and Fritz Brickell.

Outfield Swap Seen
McGuff speculated that the Athletics would swap one or more of their outfielders for an infielder. He pointed out that the Yanks are thin in the outfield. They have seven outfielders in camp, but only Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Hector Lopez are of known front line caliber. In contrast, the A's have six good men in Bill Tuttle, Norm Sieben, Bob Cerv, Hank Bauer, Russ Snyder and Whitey Herzog not to mention utility man Dick Williams. And, one of the best-looking youngsters in camp is Leo Posada, who hit homers and batted .281 last year in class AA ball.

The Yanks are strong in infield talent. The A's infield is pitiful. There was no hint about which of the A's outfielders might interest New York.

Clemente for Free

FFORT MYERS, Fla. (NEA) General Manager Joe Brown warned the Pirates not to be too free with their comments about things they don't like at their Fort Myers training camp.

But Roberto Clemente, the Pittsburgh outfielder, has a few choice words about giving his time away for nothing.

Asked to do a television interview, the Puerto Rican answered: "They always want me for free. When they pay, they ask for somebody else. Same for banquets. When they pay to go to banquet, they no look for Clemente. They get somebody else."

"Free banquet? Get Clemente."

Chamberlain, Baylor Are Stars As Warriors, Lakers Get Wins

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

With powerful city associations like Poughkeepsie, Albany and Jamestown bidding for the 1962 state women's tournament, the formidable challenge confronting the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association cannot be minimized.

Time was when it was strictly a two-city duel between Kingston and Jamestown. Then came Poughkeepsie and more recently Albany to complicate the picture and compound the Kingston task.

Having observed the thorough preparations and tireless enthusiasm of the KWBA state tournament committee, we have a hunch they will bring home the bacon. More specifically, with the 1962 tournament will come a big bundle of fresh dough into the business community.

The current tournament in Geneva has attracted an all-time record breaking entry of 2436 teams, 3770 doubles and 7540 singles. By 1962 these figures should be substantially boosted.

We sincerely hope the business fraternity of the city is fully aware of the scope of a state tournament and the amount of work and detail the dedicated women of the KWBA are putting into this bid. This is a big business and the girls will be shooting for high stakes on April 2 in Geneva. We wish them the best of luck.

Chichelsky's Chatter:

Mannie Colao tells us he will definitely bowl with his team against the police. The big question is when. Mannie would also like to inform all needlers in the City Minor he has been unable to bowl with his team on Mondays—because of doctor's orders. In our summation of various league races last week, we failed to mention that Weishaupt Market is in contention for the Junior Major title. In other league competition, we find Herzog's on top in the Central Rec; Montgomery Ward in the Kingston Booster and Colonial Tire in the Bowlero Mixed. We honestly think the two females on the Colonial Tire squad are the real sparkplugs of the team. . . . If Buster Ferraro doesn't mind, we have to put Tom Carlini in the column again for his 682 in the HYBL. . . . Arnie Crookston, the Rosendale Bomber, unloaded 667; Fred DiBella with 30 clean frames had 656 and Bill Sinsabaugh had a 654. . . . Clifton Quick has been on a hot streak since taking a couple hints from Bob Shleghtner. We hear that the Ferraro Bowl-erama has a big sweeper coming up.

Terry Beckett's Tenpin Topics:

The past few weeks have proved an earlier prediction of terrific competition in the individual games and series. Checking back, we note that a total of about twenty-five 600 triples have been rolled. The gal in the Friendship League who really scattered the pins was Marie Bechtold. She powered a 626 triple with games of 256-203-167. Just last week we mentioned the highest single game rolled so far this season and that same night Marie came up with her 256 to take the lead by three pins over Evelyn Nitsch's 253. With her big series Marie led her team, the Jones Dairy girls, to a nice 2604 team triple. . . . Hilda Murphy found the lanes to her liking last week by rolling two successive six hundreds, a 602 on Tuesday and a 619 on Wednesday. These helped Hilda to a total of eight 600 triples so far this season. . . . The KWBA Scotch doubles tournament went over with a bang this past weekend. Many thanks to John Sangi for donating the alleys for the evening. There were 95 entries and the winners will be announced in a few days.

Eunice Smiseth, a 123 average bowler, bowling at the Chalet alleys in Rosendale really hit it big when she rolled her first 200 and 500. She had 544 with games of 115-193-236. That's what we call going up the ladder. By the looks of those scores, buying that new ball certainly didn't hurt any, Eunice. . . . Peggy McHugh rolled her first 200 game, a 211 with a 548 triple, the highest in her career. . . . Overheard that one of our fine women bowlers will be moving back to Ithaca. . . . The state tournament now in progress will continue on weekends until May 29 and will bring approximately 13,000 bowlers and families to Geneva. Getting the state tournament here in 1962 would certainly make Kingston a Boom Town. . . . Believe it or not: A bowler in Illinois went from a 26-game, as she learned to bowl this season to a recent 269. Her name, appropriately enough, is Agnes Bowler. Wonder who her instructor is? The next Executive Board meeting of the KWBA will be held this coming Monday, March 28, at 7 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Wilt Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor are lifesavers in every sense of the word for the championship playoff hopes of the Philadelphia Warriors and Minneapolis Lakers in the National Basketball Assn.

Chamberlain, despite a bruised right hand, scored 50 points as the Warriors beat the Boston Celtics 128-107 to avert elimination in the Eastern finals. The Celtics still lead, though, 3-2 in the best-of-seven series.

And Baylor scored 40 points for the Lakers, who took a 3-2 lead over St. Louis in the West with a 117-110 overtime victory.

Seek to Clinch

Both Boston and Minneapolis go after clinching victories Thursday night, with the Celtics playing in Philadelphia and the Lakers having a home court advantage. The latter had the same situation a year ago and eliminated St. Louis, only to lose four in a row to Boston for the NBA title.

Chamberlain has been ineffective after injuring his hand in a scuffle with Boston's Tom Heinsohn last Friday. But Tuesday night, with the hand much better though still swollen, he canned 22 field goals and six fouls. He had help from Tom Gola who added 22 points.

The Lakers and Hawks were tied 47-47 at halftime and 103-103 going into the overtime. The Lakers never trailed in the extra period as Rudy Lussu scored five of their 14 points.

Dave Ragan Is Pacing Seminole Golf Tourney

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A day's debt work with driver and putter earned $1,700 for Dave Ragan in the Seminole Golf Club Tournament.

The Orlando pro collected $1,000 for his 4-under-par 68 in the single medal round Tuesday. Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., and Sam Snead of Boca Raton were knotted at 72 in their first tournament of the season. They won $450 apiece.

Art Wall Suffering Kidney Infection

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP) — Art Wall may not be able to defend his Masters golf crown at Augusta, Ga., April 7 because of a kidney infection.

Wall said at his home Tuesday, "It looks rather doubtful that I'll be at Augusta."

"My only hope," he added, "is that this thing suddenly comes around."

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON

Sports Editor Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (NEA) — A group of high school journalists interviewed Casey Stengel at Miller Huggins Field, where the Yankees do their preliminary training.

One of the youngsters took notes: "You writing all this down?" Professor Stengel wanted to know. "Well, that's pretty good. I've been around with these New York writers for 11 years and they still can't understand me. I put a new system in baseball without speaking English."

The boy asked Ol' Case where he believed the New York club would finish.

"I'm not down here next spring," replied the millionaire manager, "you'll know where we finished."

Crowding 69 and in his 50 year in organized baseball, Stengel hasn't slowed down a bit, especially conversationally. Nor did the erstwhile Bombers finishing third last season take any wind out of his canvas. He's the best public relations man baseball has ever had. Sitting on a bench outside the clubhouse, he almost looked and sounded like Bernard Baruch.

Stengel, the master platoonier, is still at it. The latest is Yogi Berra at third base. A half dozen court reporters with two pencils each couldn't keep up with Stengel's running fire of triple talk, but you gather that the great catcher is doing this on his own. Berra will be 35 in May and has done a heap of catching the past 12 years.

"Berra is one of my managers, you know," Stengel explained. "I told him I wanted to catch (Elston) Howard and (Johnny) Blanchard this spring. I suggested he might prolong his playing career three or four years by finding a spot other than catching where he could play."

"Like (Bill) Dickey ahead of him, Berra is so tremendous catchers behind him wear out in the dugout. (Charley) Silveira and (Ralph) Houk rusted away while Berra did all the catching, but they couldn't hit, so it didn't matter. Howard can hit and all our scouts and minor league managers who have had him assure me Blanchard can catch, throw and hit. The trouble is you haven't given him a chance," they tell me.

"Blanchard can't be sent out again, so I must find out now whether he can do the job."

"And I agree with such a fine judge as Joe DiMaggio that all he has to do to be a first class outfielder is play enough. When you consider his hit in the package deal, he's a much better outfielder than some clubs getting away with it on other clubs."

You obtain the impression that Stengel does not consider Howard quick enough about to play the outfield. Along this line, you also gather that Stengel and the brass believe Gil McDougald has lost a step in all directions and no longer could play shortstop with aplomb. The Yankees definitely would trade the versatile infielder.

"With Berra, (Bill) Skowron and Howard or Blanchard in the batting order with (Mickey) Mantle, (Roger) Maris and (Hector) Lopez, we'd have enough power to make that (Al) Lopez (White Sox) and the 10-per center in Cleveland (Frank Lane) quit feeling sorry for us," stressed Stengel.

Mickey Mantle has to cut down his strikeouts and get back to his big years to put the Yankees back on the heights. One of the high school kids asked Stengel just how far Mickey could hit the ball.

"With a running start, a fungo stick and everything else going for them, then other big hitters couldn't come close to Mantle," said Casey Stengel.

Minor Dissension Evident In American Football Loop

By ALAN CLINE

Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Dissension, minor perhaps but still a rift, smoldered in the American Football League today over drafting players for the Oakland club.

Y. C. Soda, general manager for the eighth and last club to get an AFL franchise, said his beef was an AFL principle.

His troubles, first show of internal dissension in the new league, began Monday when the seven other clubs presented him and Coach Eddie Erdelatz with a list of 11 "untouchables," men Oakland couldn't draft. The Los Angeles Chargers and Houston Oilers, however, backed on several names of nontransfers, men who wanted to stay with the two clubs.

"These men should have been included in the 11 untouchables," Soda said. "When the agreement is to freeze 11, why don't they freeze 11?"

Soda went to AFL Commissioner Joe Pess.

"He said he felt sorry for us, but he couldn't do much about it," Soda related. "But he did say that in the next go-round, the non-transfers would be included among the 'untouchables'."

Soda said the team, still unnamed and without a playing field, has about 20 players under contract now and hopes to get about 35 more from the five rounds of drafting.

George Blanda, ex-Chicago Bear quarterback, Tom Lanphear, both with Houston; and Ron Waller, former Los Angeles Rams back now with the Chargers, were among the non-transfer group.

Dutchess Youths Are Jailed for Store Robbery

Two 18-year-old Dutchess County youths were sentenced by County Judge John R. Schwartz Tuesday to no minimum five year maximum term in the Elmira Reception Center for their part in a $10 holdup at a Rochdale store last Dec. 5.

The youths were, Karl Damanda and Louis David Eisenhart III, both of River View Village. Damanda is a nephew of former Wappingers Falls police justice, Fred V. Damanda. Eisenhart is a Dutchess Community College student.

Judge Schwartz told the youths they must pay for their mistake and he told them he could not treat them any differently than four robbers he had sentenced in recent months. "To do so," Schwartz said, "would be an injustice to the other defendants."

Schwartz recommended that Damanda, a Wappingers Central School junior, and Eisenhart, be transferred to the New York State Vocational Training School at Coxsack. The judge said he resented an implication by defense attorney, former district attorney Ely L. Gellert, that the court was not doing its duty in punishing the defendants according to law. Gellert asked the judge to impose suspended sentences and to place the defendants on probation for five years.

Assistant District Attorney Robert Winne said the defendants were permitted to plead guilty to reduced charges of second degree robbery, where they actually had committed first degree robbery, the minimum penalty for which is 10 years in prison. Winne also contended there has been "a rash of robberies" in Dutchess County in the last two years and he noted that half of those have involved youths under 21 years of age.

Officials Clarify Violations of DA's Aide, Judge

PORT JERVIS, N. Y. (AP) — City officials today clarified a news story concerning parking meter violations in this community.

The story, published last week, said that Jerome S. Cohen, assistant district attorney for Orange County, had paid four parking meter ticket fines on one day and that City Court Judge William J. Gregg had paid six parking meter fines and held the record therefore.

Police officials said Cohen had paid a civil compromise of $1 (frequently referred to as a fine) on the day in question for only one ticket and that only one parking meter ticket has been actually made out for the vehicle owned by Judge Gregg. A civil compromise of $1 was promptly paid in that instance.

Airborne Picket Was First Threat to Area Rainmaker

BY CHARLES R. DOUGLAS
Freeman Staff Writer

This is the fourth of a series of articles on 1959 rain-making experiments by Dr. Wallace E. Howell, Harvard climatologist to replenish New York City's depleted reservoirs.

A novel picketing threat came from Dr. Howell's first tour of the Catskills.

A large Sullivan County resort had offered an air base, and a union claiming discrimination against organized labor in the area, protested.

Protests to O'Dwyer

The Freeman on March 18, 1959, headlined an account of the protest: "Airborne Picket Line May Enter Made-Rain Wrangle." The report said the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters opposed use of the airport and requested the rainmaker to refuse the offer.

Dr. Howell gave no indication of whether he was considering the offer. The Freeman noted that George E. Yerry Jr., who headed the district council, revealed that a telegram of protest had been sent to Mayor William O'Dwyer. Yerry also reported plans for painting "two or three planes with appropriate signs."

The Associated Press reported at about the same time that at Middleburg the Schenectady County Board of Supervisors named a seven-man committee to investigate "all possible effects" of rainmaking, and former Supreme Court Justice J. Walter Bliss, of Middleburg, indicated that part of the committee's study would deal with possible legal action if the rainmaker's efforts allegedly caused floods.

An AP report of March 17, dated New York City, said: "A Harvard scientist, who smiles at fables, probed Rip VanWinkle land today in search of rain for New York City."

Stain, Aalto in Party
"Dr. Howell, 35-year-old research meteorologist began his quest on this snowed-out Catskill mountain near Woodstock." The AP described Dr. Howell as a tall, lean boyish-looking man with a crew haircut. He told a reporter at Woodstock, "I hope to be ready to start experiments during the latter part of next week."

Assigned with Dr. Howell to find an operating base in the mountains, the report said, were New York City engineers Fred Stein and John Aalto (the latter is stationed at Kingston.) Stephen J. Carney, New York's water commissioner, was also with Dr. Howell.

When asked if he thought the State Water Power and Control Commission could intervene, Dr. Howell said: "There's no evidence yet that the clouds we use to make rain from will be stolen from anybody."

Commissioner Carney said, "We'll talk about that later."

Dr. Howell was due to return to New York for a television appearance on the same night.

Favors Downsville Area

An inspection of the Slide Mountain area was due to be made after that at Woodstock. Engineers said they wanted a site adapted for radio communication between air and ground mobile units.

Within a week, it was noted that sites in the Woodstock and Slide Mountain areas were rejected and the rainmaker favored lower mountain country in the area of Downsville, Delaware County.

At about the same time that Dr. Howell was inspecting site for a base of operation, W. W. Chaplin (a former Woodstocker) was on an NBC radio interview tour in the county and Life Magazine became interested in the rain-making project.

The Ulster County Board of Supervisors was asked to take a stand, and on March 24 Cluett Schantz, the board's chairman, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, of Kingston, Kenneth E. Wilson, now a state assemblyman, and then Supervisor of the Town of Woodstock, Reginald E. Evers, supervisor of the Town of Shandaken, Albert Kurdt, Chamber of Commerce secretary, and others reported their objections to press and radio.

Dr. Howell, who was hired for the job upon recommendation of Dr. Irving Longmuir, General Electric Company scientist, "and pioneer rainmaker," the AP said, reported that two of New York City's police department planes would be equipped, at first, to seed clouds with dry ice.

Jacoby No-Trump Prevents Set
By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The raise from one to two no-trump invites came but allows the opening bidder to pass with a no-trump in the lower half of his no-trump range.

The high card strength for such a raise is that number of points which added to your partner's maximum will produce a total of 26 or 27. Thus, you need 9 or 10 high card points to raise a 15-17 point no-trump opener to two. With 8 points you pass, with 11 you should jump right to game.

The requirements for the raise of a 16-18 point no-trump are one point less. Thus, today's North should raise a 16-18 point no-trump to two whereupon South was using the 15-17 point limits so North passed.

It was well that he did. West opened the four of spades and the defense took three spades, a club and a diamond.

Cold, Windy Period Due Through Monday

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The extended weather forecasts for New York State, prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p. m. today to 7 p. m. Monday:

Eastern New York — Cold and windy throughout the period, with temperatures averaging about 10 degrees below normal. Some light snow or flurries at the beginning and occasional flurries throughout the period. Some moderation in temperature likely by Sunday and another period of precipitation early next week. Total water content of precipitation one-quarter inch of less. Too cold for the best flow of maple sap.

Western New York — Wintry weather is indicated with temperatures expected to average several degrees below normal. Light snow tonight, snow flurries continued cold Thursday and Friday. Gradual warming and generally fair weather over the weekend. Snow likely about Monday. Less than one-half inch of melted precipitation is expected.

Temperature Normals — Normal temperatures over Upstate New York now range from daytime highs of 38 to 48, to overnight lows in the 20s.

Ice, Winds Slow Shipping Season For Second Day

TORONTO (AP) — The Great Lakes shipping season went into its second day today still hampered by high winds and ice fields.

The oil tanker Imperial Windsor, first ship on the St. Clair River, stuck in the ice Tuesday en route from Sarnia to Windsor. A U. S. Coast Guard cutter finally freed the tanker and escorted her to Windsor.

The cutter reported 8 to 30 inches of ice in Lake St. Clair covered by 3 inches of snow. An ice field covers the St. Clair River Canal.

Two fishing tugs from Wheatley, Ont., freed from an ice field east of Point Pelee on Lake Erie Tuesday by two Coast Guard cutters, made their way back to port.

The Detroit Weather Bureau said most of Lake Erie is ice-covered with temperatures in the Great Lakes area more like mid-winter than spring.

Young Mother, 3 Children Killed In Florida Crash

PLANT CITY, Fla. (AP) — A train-auto crash killed a 19-year-old mother and her three small children near here.

Mrs. Edward A. Williams, Valerie, 4, Vicky Jane, 2, and Eddie Linn, 1, were riding in a car that was dragged 200 feet by a freight train Tuesday night.

A state highway patrolman said Mrs. Williams apparently didn't hear the warning whistle of the train.

Confused About Bells, He Pulls Alarm, Fined $50

A young man charged with sounding a false alarm at Washington Avenue and North Front Street early March 18 was found guilty after trial Tuesday night before City Judge Aaron E. Klein and was fined $50.

A driver who appeared as a second offender on a charge of speeding was also fined $50 and two others paid $5 each on traffic charges.

Erich G. A. Schmid, 22, of 279 Clinton Avenue, who, police said, had a hand on the alarm box when a patrol car drew up near it, reported after the arrest that he had seen a light flashing and thought he had heard bells. He said he became confused.

Attorney Thomas F. Saccamano, who appeared for the defendant, said he had acted without malicious intentions. Harry Gold appeared for the district attorney's office.

It was noted after the arrest that the intersection has a police signal light, but there was no indication as to whether it was flashed at the time.

Schmid, who has been employed locally as a waiter, said he is due soon to return to Germany where he will visit Oberammergau, city of the Passion Play.

Ronald K. Natoli, 22, of 103 Esopus Avenue, charged with a second offense of speeding, was given the choice of paying the $50 fine or spending 25 days in jail. He was arrested March 17 by officer Meyer Levy. The fine was paid.

Claude Terwilliger, 58, of Kensington, paid a $5 fine on a red light charge and Anthony Paul Jones, of PO Box 346, Kingston, was fined $5 on a stop-sign charge.

Woman Gets Oxygen

A police department emergency oxygen unit was administered to a woman who became suddenly ill at Tuesday night's city court session. Officer Otto Short gave the oxygen to Charlene Zartman, 32, of 322 Hasbrouck Avenue, pending the arrival of a Fatum ambulance. She was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment and was discharged.
